KNIFE-ARMED NEGROES GUNNED DOWN IN YARD

MONROE, La. (UPI) — A 40-year-old white man shot down five Negro employees in his front yard today when they came after him with knives. Three of the Negroes were killed instantly.

Sheriff Bailey Grant said Robert Fuller, 40, got a 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun, opened his front door and began shooting when he saw the Negroes armed with knives.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota gave the stop-Kennedy movement a psychological boost today by supporting Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kennedy Over Hump

BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy stormed over the 761 publicly committed delegate votes required for the Democratic presidential nomination today just two hours before the decisive session of the national convention. The break came in a caucus of the New Jersey delegation which voted to swing 31½ of its 41 votes to the Massachusetts senator's column.

Last-Ditch Try By the Old Pros

By MAX FREEDMAN
(Special to the Times)

LOS ANGELES — Tuesday was the last day on which Mr. Adlai Stevenson and Senator Lyndon Johnson had a chance at the Democratic convention to stop Senator John Kennedy from winning the presidential nomination.

They made some progress, enough to halt the rush to the Kennedy banner, but not enough to place the nomination in serious doubt.

At the end of the day two verdicts were inevitable: Senator Kennedy still held an immense lead and the bitterness against him in the party had increased.

Belgian Troops Take Over In Capital City of Congo

Special Session Of UN Tonight

(Times News Services)

Belgian paratroopers battled Congolese army forces and seized control of the city of Leopoldville and the nearby Midili Airport today in a major offensive designed to safeguard whites in the chaotic new republic of the Congo.

Simultaneously, the Congolese government called for troops from the African Negro republic of Ghana to intervene to help restore order. The Belgian military drive came as the United States and the United Nations pursued a policy of "quiet diplomacy" to end the strife, which one high African official called a "state of war" between Belgium and the Congo.

In New York, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold summoned the UN Security Council into extraordinary session tonight to discuss the rapidly deteriorating situation.

Hammarskjold took the initiative after circulating to UN members a request for UN help to end the disorders received from Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu.

ACT OF AGGRESSION
They had termed Belgium's military operations against their country an "act of aggression" and blamed "colonialist provocations" for most of the troubles there.

The Congo asked the United States for 3,000 American troops to help restore order. This request was passed along to the UN and probably will be considered along with the Lumumba-Kasavubu bid for UN help.

The U.S. thus far has adopted a cautious wait-and-see attitude, indicating it is opposed to sending a large military force to the Congo.

But the White House has not disclosed whether the United States would go along with a request from the UN to include American troops in any international force dispatched to the strife-ridden African nation.

Belgium has decided that it will support the Congolese government's bid for UN military and technical aid to restore order.

IGNORED ORDER
But it flatly ignored a Congo government ultimatum that Belgian troops return to their bases there immediately or face battle with the Congolese army.

Instead, the Belgians launched a co-ordinated military attack.

The paratroopers landed at the airport shortly after Belgian officials rejected Congolese demands for withdrawal of all Belgian troops to their bases.

Landing in Belgian Air Force planes, the green-bellied paratroopers opened fire at Congolese troops molesting whites.

One Congolese soldier was killed and three Belgians, including two women refugees, were wounded. A number of Congolese were taken prisoner.

Belgian families on balconies cheered wildly as the paratroopers marched into the city from the airport, 20 miles away.

'Mission Of Mercy'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) —

The navy announced Tuesday the aircraft carrier Wasp is steaming toward the South Atlantic "and if the situation requires, she will continue on toward Africa to assist in evacuation of United States nationals from the Congo." A navy spokesman emphasized that "this was purely a mission of mercy."

'Oppression'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia accused the West of "colonial oppression" in the Congo today and asked the United Nations to take immediate action to end this "armed aggression." Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the text of a statement on the matter to U.S. Charge D'Affaires Edward Freers and the Belgian ambassador.

Canadians Ready

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian officers on the United Nations Truce Supervisory Commission in Palestine may be used to help restore order in the strife-torn Congo Republic, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated today.

He told the Commons use of commission officers as a preliminary step was one of the proposals under study by UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

King Sees Refugees

BRUSSELS (AP) — King Baudoin of Belgium made an unexpected visit to Zaventem airport Tuesday, talking with refugees arriving from the Congo and scribbling hasty notes about their cases. The young monarch, who arrived unheralded, won applause from the crowd of refugees and their relatives.

Food Shortage

BRUSSELS (AP) — Matadi, main Congolese port on the Atlantic has food for only one more day, the Belgian radio reported this morning. The radio said the Congolese government has asked the United States for the immediate supply of 100,000 tons of flour.

South Africa Aid

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd announced Tuesday his government will provide financial aid to white refugees from the Congo who want to settle in South Africa.

GREEKS, ITALIANS PRAY, WORLD END THURSDAY?

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters) — Inhabitants of the northern village of Lefkara are in continuous prayer as a result of newspaper stories from abroad that the world probably will end Thursday.

The villagers are forgiving each other's sins and some have made their wills.

In Italy, a group of 100 persons are camped some 7,000 feet high on the slopes of Mont Blanc awaiting the end of the world Thursday—by nuclear war and earthquake.

PLANE INCIDENT

Soviet Asks UN Session

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today asked for a meeting of the United Nations Security Council to consider the situation resulting from the shooting down of the American RB-47 aircraft over the Barents Sea July 1.

The request was made in a Soviet letter to UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Meanwhile the United States has charged that Soviet airplanes "wantonly" destroyed a U.S. RB-47 reconnaissance bomber over international waters in the Arctic July 1.

A sharply worded note to the Kremlin Tuesday warned of "most serious consequences" in the event of any repetition of the act.

The note also demanded release of two officers who survived the Soviet Air Force attack. Washington officials held little hope of accomplishing this, however. They said they expect the two to be tried on espionage charges.

The U.S. note rejected Soviet charges that the aircraft was on a spy mission similar to that of the U-2 high altitude jet shot down in central Russia May 1. The RB-47 was never closer than 30 miles to the Soviet coast, the note declared.

WANTON ATTACK
"It is therefore evident that pursuant to instructions of the government airplanes of the Soviet Air Force wantonly attacked the American airplane over international waters with the admitted loss of that aircraft and of the life of at least one of the members of its crew."

In addition, the United States protested the "cynical failure" of the Soviet government to report the action until Monday.

U.K. Protests Soviet Action
LONDON (UPI) — Britain today joined the United States in protesting against the shooting down of an American reconnaissance bomber over the international waters of the Barents Sea by the Russians, informed sources revealed.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a note to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev warned that such illegal actions by the Russians heightened international tension, the sources said.

VANCOUVER 'LOVELY LANDING PORT'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's civil defence head says Victoria would be a more logical target for enemy missiles than Vancouver.

Group Capt. Alex Lewis said the naval base at Esquimalt, which would become a base for United States missile-launching submarines, would be a top strategic target in a nuclear war.

"Vancouver would be a lovely port to be saved for an enemy's own landing uses," he said in reply to criticism by a Vancouver alderman that fallout shelters are a hoax and a waste of money.

But the city would be in danger from fallout from nuclear attacks on Seattle and Victoria. For that reason fallout shelters would save lives.

Ald. Frank Fredrickson said the shelters, recommended by the federal government, would be useless in the event of nuclear attack.

Both the National and American leagues seem to be in better shape than the International League.

Nice of Vancouver to be so unselfish about them bombs.

Guess th' Belgians just couldn't resist th' lure o' th' jungle.

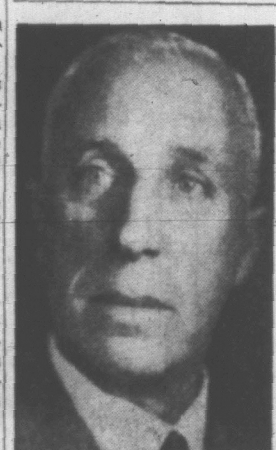

Both th' National and American leagues seem to be in better shape than th' International League.

Nice of Vancouver to be so unselfish about them bombs.

NO FALL SESSION

Prime Minister Diefenbaker today in the Commons said that reports the government was considering a fall session "have no foundation." Reports circulating in Ottawa said the present session would end July 23 and that a fall session would be called.

Four Homers Give Nats Second Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League overpowered the American League with four home runs today to complete a sweep of the two all-star baseball games this season with a 6-0 victory before 38,362 at the Yankee Stadium.

Circuit blows by Eddie Mathews, Willie Mays, Stan Musial and Ken Boyer provided all six runs for the Nationals.

Musial's home run was his sixth in all-star competition. National Leaguers won the first of the two games at Kansas City Monday, 5-3. Today's win cut the American League's series lead to 16-13.

Meanwhile, American Leaguers were helpless against the pitching of Law, Podres, Williams, Jackson, Henry and McDaniel.

People and Things

(Times News Services)

MANCHESTER, Mass. — Recent reports of a "sea serpent" have created a stir in this summer community. Most boatmen are now carrying cameras in hopes of photographing the creature.

Two veteran fishermen Tuesday reported seeing what they described as a "strange water animal" near Egg Rock, off Manchester.

Brothers Harry and Warren Heath said they were approaching their fish traps when they saw the creature. Harry described it as "about 14 to 16 feet long, with a black and white head, two protuberant eyes and a black back."

The brothers said they watched the creature, which "did not appear to have any fins and looked like the shallow keel of a 'V' overturned whale-boat," until it submerged.

As they were hauling in their traps, it surfaced again only 36 feet away.

Another report of a sea creature was picked up on a monitored radio message from an unidentified fishing boat out of Gloucester.

HONG KONG — Three 18-year-old British soldiers who went over the border to Communist China told a court martial Tuesday they did it "to make a thorough nuisance of ourselves" and so get kicked out of the army. The three privates were acquitted on a charge of desertion.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Three times last March 19, Don F. Smith drove from a tavern to a liquor store, bent on robbery.

Each time he had a different accomplice, and each time the accomplice lost his nerve. Smith finally gave up in disgust and went home.

He was no sooner in bed than two of his previously weak-kneed pals stuck up the store. They parked the getaway car in Smith's front yard.

Police arrested Smith.

Tuesday the 19-year-old youth was sentenced to prison for 10 months to one year for conspiracy.

Officers are still looking for the robbers.

LONDON — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip went to the theatre Tuesday night but had to change seats because the ones they took belonged to someone else.

The Royal Couple arrived at the Haymarket Theatre 10 minutes early to see the play "Rosa," about Lawrence of Arabia. Just before the curtain went up, a woman usher told them they were in the wrong seats.

"Sorry, sir, but these seats are — er — taken," the usher whispered in Philip's ear.

"Right," Philip responded with a smile. He, the Queen and two other couples with them got up and moved over.

The usherette, Mrs. Florence Hodges, 30, said she was told by the management that the Royal Couple was coming to the theatre but that they were to be treated as "ordinary people."

LONDON — Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones Tuesday night moved into Kensington Palace, the first home of their own.

A 20-room section of the 17th century building was set aside for the couple on their marriage May 6 as a "grace and favor" residence, courtesy of the Queen.

The newlyweds have been living at Clarence House, across the Mall from Buckingham Palace, since their return last month from a six-week Caribbean honeymoon cruise.

Yachtsmen Saved In Boiling Rapids

OTTAWA (CP) — Nine yachtsmen stranded all night in the Ottawa River's raging Deschenes Rapids were brought to safety today by combined helicopter and jet boat operations.

The shallow-draft jet boat plowed three times through the rapids seven miles west of Parliament Hill this morning to pluck seven persons including the lone woman from two sailboats caught in the swollen rapids. All were safe and chipper.

A helicopter from the RCAF search and rescue unit at Trenton, Ont., equipped with para-rescue team, finally struck success after a frustrating night and lifted off the other two.

The rescue of all hands capped a series of swift changes in plans. Initially two of the men had elected to ride out the day until a tug could pull their yawl to safety upstream.

The episode began with a sharp squall Tuesday night that caught Britannia Yacht Club vessels including the 25-foot sloop Talisman. Wind and current pushed the sloop into the quarter-mile-long chute of rock and white water despite an auxiliary motor.

The yawl Negark quit a race to bring assistance and was

Stampede Attendance In Slump

CALGARY (CP) — Attendance was down but the competition was superlative as the 1960 Calgary Stampede swung into its third day today.

After a drop Monday of more than 17,164 from 1959 first-day figures, the number of visitors decreased again Tuesday as 81,546 passed through the Stampede stockade, 9,480 less than during the same day a year ago.

But on the infield before an enclosure and grandstand packed throughout the day with crowds that varied from 20,000 to 30,000, the rodeo events were tops. Leading names on the North American circuit proved their ability and finished the day riding high.

Casey Tibbs of Bracketville, Tex., bettered all performances to date in the North American saddle bronc riding with 178 points, and all-round competitor Guy Weeks of Abilene, Tex., was just off the 18-second pace set by U.S. cowboy Sonny Worrell in Tuesday's calf roping.

'Rule of Wealthy' Election Danger

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — A tighter rein on federal election campaign expenses was urged in the Commons Tuesday by opposition MPs.

J. W. Pickersgill (L. Bonavista-Twillingate) expressed the fear that unless something is done to reduce the cost of campaigning for election, Canadian democracy will give way to plutocracy — a rule of the wealthy.

Among his proposals: The placing of a limit on expenditures by both individual candidates and their parties, making radio and television campaigning a "public matter" without charging candidates, meeting some costs from the federal treasury, outlawing some expenditures altogether, and a special inquiry into the whole situation.

The British have set limits on campaign expenses, said Douglas Fisher (CCF, Port Arthur). "I can't see why we couldn't do something like that in Canada."

They spoke before the Commons gave second reading approval in principle to legislation incorporating all the Elections Act amendments recommended by the House elections committee in a June 13 report.

Chief among them is a proposal for granting advance poll privileges to all persons they will be away from home on a federal election day. At who have reason to believe present, this privilege is restricted to travelling salesmen, transport workers, fishermen and members of the RCMP.

The House committee considered — and rejected — proposals to reduce the minimum voting age to 18 from 21 and to permit absentee or proxy voting, and to establish permanent voters' lists.

Pickersgill Urges Spending Ceilings

Mr. Pickersgill said the cost of campaigning could be reduced by making a "great many" of present expenses illegal and by putting an expenditure ceiling on both individual candidates and their parties.

Some expenses should be met from public funds, Mr. Pickersgill said. He described this as not necessarily a Liberal party view, but as one "I hold personally very strongly."

Mr. Fisher said much of the rising campaign expense is created by competition. Citizens were getting "fed up" with spot radio and TV advertisements, "big blurs" in newspapers and use of sound trucks. The result was that much of the competition "cancels itself out."

Some action also should be taken to bring about shorter election campaigns, Mr. Fisher said. At present the Canadian campaigns were much longer than those in the United Kingdom and "expenses build up to a crescendo."

Mr. Pickersgill said he hopes the day will come when campaign broadcasting will be a "public matter and it will no longer be possible for anyone to purchase time." The present system of charging election candidates gave "an advantage to him who has the longest purse."

Civil Rights Hearing 'Complete Farce'

Liberal and CCF members accused government supporters of hamstringing a special Commons committee set up to study Prime Minister Diefenbaker's bill of rights.

They vigorously protested a tentative ruling by Norman Spencer (PC, Essex West) after his election as chairman that the provinces will not be invited to make presentations and that alternate proposals to guarantee fundamental rights and human freedoms will not be studied.

Paul Martin (L., Essex East) said that if the committee's work is limited to a study of the government's bill "we are here under false colors."

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader in the Commons, said Mr. Spencer's ruling would make the work of the committee a "complete farce." Witnesses who believed that a bill of rights should be embedded in the Canadian constitution would be prevented from being heard.

A Commons committee that will inquire into prices of farm equipment — and the reasons for their rise — was launched today with indications that MPs have plenty to discuss. Annual price boosts, frequent model changes, difficulties of getting repairs, and what one MP called "the hidden relationships" behind equipment prices were among issues raised as agriculture committee began its study.

PERLE'S PARTY

7,500 Show Up For 'Brunch'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Washington party-giver Perle Mesta had a go at out-Hollywood Hollywood Tuesday with a gin and eggs brunch that drew 7,500 Democratic convention goers.

In the four-hour crush at the famed Coconut Grove nightclub hungry guests gobbled up 1,100 dozen eggs, 650 pounds of bacon and sausage and 775 gallons of chicken a la king.

They emptied 22 cases of gin in screwdrivers, silver fizzies and bloody marys and drank up 700 gallons of coffee.

The party, which was a Lyndon Johnson-for-president shindig, cost more than $10,000, a Coconut Grove spokesman said.

Perle invited every convention delegate "with spouse." Many of the delegates first learned they were at a Johnson-plugging party when singer Joy Lane launched into the tall Texan's campaign song.

CALIFORNIA FAVORS STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 81-vote California delegation favored Adlai Stevenson by a one-vote margin in a poll Tuesday.

The vote, which is not binding, was: Stevenson 31½, Kennedy 30½, Symington nine, Johnson six and one-half, Governor Edmund G. Brown two and one-half, and representative Chester Bowles one-half.

The poll came in the face of the governor's endorsement of Senator John F. Kennedy. Brown earlier released the delegates pledged to him as a favorite son for the first ballot.

them votes in the 1960 presidential campaign.

Rejecting protests and warnings of its southern delegates, the national convention Tuesday night approved the most powerful plank ever adopted by the Democrats in favor of improving the social status of American Negroes.

The controversial civil rights plank would have all southern schools opened to Negro children by 1963. It endorsed the Negro lunch-counter demonstrations in the South; promised to increase protection for Negro voting rights and aimed to end discrimination against Negroes in public facilities, housing and jobs.

The plank was aimed at the big U.S. Negro vote, especially in New York's Harlem area which had been critical of Senator John Kennedy's attitude on Negro issues.

The entire platform had the smell of vote bait. It promised stronger defence; higher farm supports; more federal aid for education, housing and harnessing of resources; medical help for the aged; full employment and aid for depressed areas.

All this would be done without higher taxes. In fact there would even be surpluses to reduce the U.S. national debt—now about $290,000,000,000.

In the foreign field, the Democrats promised no recognition of Red China; an end to discrimination in U.S. immigration; a strong line against the Communists and a direct warning to Soviet Premier Khrushchev to keep his hands off Berlin, Germany or any other part of the West, including Latin America.

IF THE GALLUP POLL IS EVEN approximately accurate, as it certainly has been in the past, the Diefenbaker Government has begun to drift toward defeat at the next election.

In January, 1959, the poll showed that 57 per cent of the Canadian electors were prepared to vote for the Government, only 30 per cent for the Liberal party. Today, the pollsters find, the Government's support stands at only 42 per cent. The prospective Liberal vote has grown to 40 per cent. The two great national parties are now running neck and neck.

It is not the exact current figure but the trend of opinion that will settle the next election. If the present trend were to continue during the next year or two the Government would not only be defeated but would suffer the same fate which overtook the Liberal Party in 1958.

It is doubtful indeed that any Canadian Government of the past, even the ill-fated Bennett Government elected in 1930, has lost the public's confidence as fast as the Government of Mr. Diefenbaker.

It must be remembered, however, that Canadian Governments are usually at the nadir of their popularity mid-way through the parliamentary term. A government, like a man, starts to die at the moment of its birth, and it dies slow or fast. Governments with long life in them recover from the typical mid-term slump and by election day are popular again. Short-lived governments slump within two years of victory and fail to recover.

Whether the Diefenbaker Government can recover remains to be seen. At best its prospects are doubtful because it is now heading into the gravest sort of problems and seems unable to face, much less to solve, any of them. The days ahead will be much harder than those of the last two years and will require from the Government much more ability than it has shown so far. If this Government is not to die at the next election it must soon experience an inward rebirth of courage. No signs of it are yet visible.

In Ottawa, the newspaper correspondents write, gloomy Conservative members of Parliament are inclined to blame their party's recent disasters in Quebec, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick on the personal behaviour of the Prime Minister. It is said that his television manner is irritating, his temper short, his attitude haughty. This sort of explanation may console some back-benchers but will not deceive the public.

The Government's sickness is far deeper than any outward symptom and cannot be blamed on any single individual. It is failing not because its manners are bad or its public relations system inadequate but because it simply has no basic policies to meet the problems of the day.

Mr. Diefenbaker (whose manners are excellent) has counted far too much on his personal charm and vivid oratory, far too little on policy. He seems to think that a speech can solve anything. But for all his eloquent speeches no great problem before the country is being solved. That, and not some minor mistake or foolish utterance, is what is wrong with the Government and why it is on the slide.

No Beds for the Ill

NOW COMES THE DISAPPOINTING report from Mr. Courtney Haddock that the new Royal Jubilee Hospital wing will not be completed until the middle of 1962.

This is the same wing for which sincere and urgent appeals for funds were made nearly two years ago. At that time doctors and hospital authorities pointed to the critical condition created by the space shortage in the hospital. Operations had to be postponed, treatment had to be foregone and admissions had to be delayed because accommodation was lacking for patients.

A dramatic call went out to the community for funds to build additions. A total of $400,000 was sought by public subscription. The public gave the appeal an open-hearted response — contributing $500,000. This, with supplementary grants from Ottawa and from the Provincial Government, was reportedly adequate for the project.

The campaign started almost two years ago.

Two years from now, says the hospital board president, the Royal Jubilee may have its new wing. Actual construction work is not expected to start before the winter.

Compare this undertaking to a somewhat larger project. In May, 1954, President Eisenhower signed the agreement to supplement Canada's commitments to the $470,000,000 St. Lawrence Seaway. On April 24, 1959, the first ship passed through the newly navigable channel to the Lakehead.

Contrast the delay on the hospital project to the expedition of the new ferry service between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, involving $11,000,000 to date on ships and docking facilities. Mr. Bennett announced the government's decision to provide the service in July, 1958. The ferries started to run last month.

Critical Victorians are asking what happened to the urgency for new hospital space so heavily emphasized when the campaign was staged. Isn't the same lack of facilities critical now? The medical profession thinks it is.

Whatever is causing the hold-up, those responsible should get off the mark now. A public which gave the hospital the support this community did deserve something a lot better than delay.

Long Way From the Wild West

IN A PERIOD OF LESS THAN 48 hours, two people were hospitalized in this community from accidents involving horses.

It may be purely a coincidence that the two mishaps occurred so close to one another in time. But coincidence or not, this is the type of accident to which we may look forward with increasing frequency unless some safety measures are taken.

People who understand horses have pointed out that many not thoroughly competent in the saddle are being exposed to increasing risks in the sport which is gaining wide popularity on the lower part of Vancouver Island. Often they mount and ride off without having proved their ability to manage a fractious animal. Frequently—and this is too generally the case with youngsters—they ride on the shoulders of highways where fast automobile traffic is passing constantly.

Mr. A. W. Neill

THIS WEEK IN ALBERNI final rites were performed for the late Mr. Alan Webster Neill, and throughout Canada those who have followed public life had occasion to mourn the passing of an exceptional and highly respected figure.

Mr. Neill, at 91, had not been active in politics for 15 years. The services he had performed for his people and for Canadians in general will be remembered, however, by all those who came in contact with him.

Frequently called the father of this country's old age pension legislation, he had enjoyed a unique career of uncompromising independence. He represented the people who elected him, and Canadians at large, without joining any political party. That his representation was good is attested by the three terms he served in the legislature here before capping his period of public life with almost a quarter century in Ottawa.

He was a man of stature, a figure of power, a native Scot who followed that fine tradition of so many others from his land who came to Canada and helped to make Canada a better place by adopting it as home and nation.

"Mirror, mirror on the wall... what's the meaning of all this nonsense?"

ANIMALS AROUND US

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL

The Song the Frogs Sing

TO most listeners the first frog chorus of the year heralds approaching spring and induces thoughts of digging in the garden or painting the boat. To naturalists and wild-life students this song from the ponds probably suggests things too but carries an even greater significance, for the frogs and their relatives are members of a group of animals that have successfully escaped from the confines of an entirely aquatic existence and the spring chorus announces the annual re-enactment of this dramatic biological event.

Eons ago a succession of fish-like creatures hauled themselves out of mucky ponds on clumsy limbs, which were really paddle-shaped fins, the first back-boned animals to venture into a new world. Their visits must have been brief at first since they had no means of keeping their breathing tissues moist for any length of time, but successive generations eventually solved this problem so that an increasingly great part of their lifetime was spent on land. Here, in a new world with little competition and no predators, a variety of forms quickly evolved, all still dependent upon the water as a place to spend their infancy and as a major source of moisture even when they graduated to land life.

Modern Remnant
Our frogs, toads, newts and salamanders are a modern remnant of this great assemblage of pioneers. Though most live on land the greater part of their life and some all their life, many of them still resort to ponds and lakes to mate and to spawn. Their offspring bear gills and fins like fish but later lose these structures and leave the water to take up residence on land. Because they "lead a double life," they are called amphibians, a name they received long before land-and-water vehicles were invented by man.

As a group, the amphibians are not very spectacular. Most are small, seldom exceeding three inches in length in the frogs and six inches in the salamanders. The exceptions are Guppy's frog of the Solomon Islands which sometimes is nine inches in body length and the giant salamander of Japan which attains a length of almost six feet. Our largest members in British Columbia are the bullfrog (eight inches) and the Pacific giant salamander (12 inches). The bullfrog is a species imported from eastern Canada and now abundant in the Burnaby Lake district near Vancouver, having escaped from a frog farm some years ago. Other small populations may be present on Vancouver Island. The Pacific giant salamander is found only in the Cultus Lake area near Chilliwack and south to California.

Smallest Frog

The smallest frog in the world is the Swamp Tree Frog of the eastern States, measuring about five-eighths of an inch in length, and the most minute salamander is well under two inches in length.

A few toads and salamanders have a glandular skin which may exude a mildly poisonous substance and one species of frog has a venomous bite, but none are any real threat to man. In spite of these facts these creatures have been viewed in awe by people probably since the beginning of human history and many silly beliefs concerning amphibians still persist in some areas.

For example many persons still believe that warts will result from handling toads and that these creatures can exist entombed in solid rock for long periods of time. Both myths are probably based on faulty reasoning and faulty observation. A toad has a warty skin but the warts are definitely not transferable. A toad may creep into a damp rock crack for temporary shelter or accidentally fall into a deep hole, but it positively cannot live entombed in rock; it must have air, moisture and food just like any other living creature.

No Magic Powers

Likewise our native peoples imbued amphibians with magical powers, both good and bad. By some the frog was thought to be the custodian of water and was therefore treated with respect. By others, "frog-people" were regarded as servants or slaves and given corresponding consideration. In some areas, frogs were watchdogs which croaked a warning when strangers approached. Hence their likenesses were occasionally worked into a totem-pole design as house guardians.

Some salamanders, particularly in the aquatic stages, were greatly feared; they were believed to enter a sleeping person's mouth and cause death. On the other hand, the terrestrial salamander with a bright yellow stripe along the mid-line of the back was thought to carry gold; to find one was good fortune.

Nowadays practical uses have been found for many species. The bullfrog is a source of food for gourmets and lovers of the unusual. Some kinds are used in laboratories for pregnancy tests and great numbers are dissected each year in colleges and universities throughout the world. Toads are sometimes released in greenhouses to help control insect pests and larval salamanders are used as bait by anglers.

To the naturalist, however, the amphibians will always hold a special interest, for these creatures are an important link between water and land animals. They alone suggest how living things were able to enter a new world; a world on dry land.

Northern Domination on Civil Rights

THE biggest controversy over the Democratic platform centres on the civil rights plank. It would be a mistake to concentrate on the text. The presidential candidate in effect will write his own platform by his speeches and statements in the campaign. The platform as approved by the convention will be no more than a guide. The present controversy must therefore be judged in the context of wider political forces.

Of all the candidates, Senator Kennedy has made the strongest commitment by promising to use the utmost stretch of presidential power in breaking down racial discrimination. Compared to him, Mr. Stevenson is a moderate. So is Senator Symington. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt questions the sincerity of Senator Kennedy's commitment and is trying to communicate her suspicions to the Negro leaders. Senator Johnson does not believe in general desegregation. He does believe however in protecting the guaranteed right to vote. It is his conviction that the Negro's status in the south will quickly improve once colored citizens begin to vote in large numbers.

Under the leadership of Senator Johnson and Speaker Rayburn, the Democratic Congress has passed the first civil rights legislation in 80 years. Until this legislation all the Negro gains had come from court decisions or actions by the executive branch in Washington or the removal of local rules of discrimination. The civil rights bill was a moderate compromise, unpopular with northern Liberals, but no stronger measure could have won the approval of Congress.

Harsh Welcome

Southern delegates came to the Democratic convention hoping that their northern colleagues would admit that the south had made at least a generous and hopeful gesture. To their surprise and dismay they found the platform committee in a harsh mood. The northern majority insisted on a strong plank; asked for greater federal authority in the enforcement of civil rights, challenged the concept of state rights, urged swifter compliance with the Supreme Court's ruling on school segregation, and endorsed sit-down demonstrations. It was a direct attack on the south's position.

Something baser than idealism was at work in the drafting of this platform. Cynical political considerations also exercised their influence. In a close presidential election the Negro voters may hold the balance of power in the six large northern states of New York, Pennsylvania, California, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois. The man who carries these states will win the election.

Northern Democrats concluded that Mr. Nixon would prefer to make a strong appeal to these states rather than try to win much support in the south. Faced with this Republican challenge, the northern Democrats decided they had to compete, even at the risk of angering their southern colleagues. They also reasoned that this anger would be kept under control since Mr. Nixon would be speaking for the party that sent troops into Little Rock.

They will be very surprised, in short, if the south should bolt the party. They expect the south to be satisfied with its minority report on civil rights and with a few critical speeches on the convention floor. The south is being led not by its wild men but by experienced moderates like Senators Ervin and Stennis.

Where would the south go? It remembers with resentment the painful precedent of 1948. In that year Mr. Truman was elected president despite a challenge in the south by the Dixiecrats and a challenge in the north by the Progressive Party under Mr. Henry Wallace. He achieved this success by capturing the large northern cities and by breaking the Republican hold on the farm states. Today northern Democrats hope to make important gains in the Midwest because of farm discontent. They also need the Negro vote in the big cities. Hence the calculated challenge to the south.

Night Train To Warsaw

By I. NORMAN SMITH

ONE tends to dramatize night travel in Europe. Mystery stories and movies feed richly on the murder and high intrigue that seem always hovering over the night express trains to Munich, Milano, or Madrid. In tunnels the trains slow down to dispose of bodies.

My wife and I went by car the half-hour trip from free Berlin to Communist Berlin and sought out "The East Station." I instinctively turned up my coat collar; she slung her purse so it could on short notice be a bludgeon!

A night train from shadowy East Berlin through the unknown rule of Communist East Germany, across the disputed Polish frontier to the harassed city of Warsaw-on the Vistula, and on still further to Moscow.

Anything could happen, we knew; but neither of us said it.

Linguistic groping through the gloomy and rather empty station provided needed comic relief. The crowded coaches we walked by lent comfort to our own sleeping cabin. A flask and a bottle of mineral water were unpacked for reinforcement against the unknown. But nothing else. Keep mobile, ready to run for it!

Late the train started; doubtless held up to accommodate someone being shipped to Siberia. Not a Canadian train start, noisy, frank and with a crash. No, a sneaky, secret, stealthy slipping away; the engineer a key figure in any plot.

Committed

So, we were committed. No suburban stops, no chances for second thoughts. Lights went by in blurred flashes, a man at a crossing gate waved a lantern, doubtless in code saying "Two Canadians on board, arrest and shoot if necessary." We pulled down the blind and pulled up the flask.

Our sleeping room's only hospitality was a place to sleep. But there was danger to face and we chose to face it with our boots on. We'd sit up until the East German border police came, until the customs came, until the Polish police came, until the Polish customs came. One always talks a foreign language better with one's clothes on.

When would they come? We didn't know. All we had been told was "sometime in the night." Would they hunt in packs or come separately? Our "informant" only shrugged, seeming to say that on this run one never knows and that if he were we he would have stayed in Ottawa.

Ah, well, we'd read a bit. Better still, my wife had a London Times crossword puzzle. But we hadn't a clue. "Murder most foul," she read out after a long silence and I sat up with a start only to lie back sheepishly when she added: "... in five letters."

Uncertain Shadows

The yellowish reading light threw uncertain shadows; to nod, to drowse, to sleep, perchance to dream; yes, we may have shut an eye of two when came suddenly a gentle insinuating knock.

On my feet and at 'em, I opened the door and an East German uniformed man asked for our transit visa through his Zone, got it, smiled, saluted and disappeared. In both Ottawa and Berlin people had told tales of such visas being rejected out of hand.

Another knock. Customs, going out. Nothing to declare! No. He was gone in 15 seconds; hadn't even seen our bags, let alone examined them.

A third knock. "Good night! I am Polish currency. You have?" No we hadn't. She was a blonde, and smiled in a way that would make any intrusion from her difficult to resist. But she, too, was gone; I like to think out of respect for Mrs. S.

I began to chide my wife a bit on both counts. "See! I told you we'd have no troubles. What were you nervous about, ha, ha!"

A fourth knock, and by now I opened the tricky combination of locks. In record time, having now done 'em up and done 'em down four times in practice and four times in earnest.

Smiling Giant

A giant was at the door, under a long peaked cap. Polish police. "Passport," he said with a smile. He also wanted our green visa. He took mine and returned the stub. My wife's he took. He wished us a good sleep in Poland and smiled his way away. I closed the door and looked at my watch: about an hour out of Berlin, now eight hours until Warsaw. The bolts I jammed home for the night.

"Hey, he didn't give me back my green stub," cried my wife from the Upper (she's smaller than I am). I patiently told her that he must have done so and would she please not panic and just search her purse and bed clothes and above all take it easy.

It couldn't be found, not even in any of the 13 pockets of my suit which I combed twice over. Reluctantly I unbolted the locks and bellowed for the attendant who bellowed for the border policeman. Back he came, and with not one single word of common language I made clear to him he had pinched my wife's green ticket stub. (I often think I'd do better in pantomime than journalism.)

Kiss and a Grin

Rifling through his papers he found it, handing it over with a clicking of heels and a bow and a kiss of my wife's hand (it dangling from aloft). He straightened up, grinned, pointed his right forefinger at his head as though to shoot himself for his own stupidity, and went off, once again into the night.

It was the only shooting that occurred. Up in her perch, my wife was well satisfied with herself, a canary that had swallowed a cat.

We slept like logs. At six in the morning a husky, grinning character handed us fierce black coffee and biscuits. At the few suburban stations outside Warsaw everyone seemed to be standing erect, ready to smile, walking with a spring in the step. Each new window-full brought us a happy feeling. It was a sight we were to see more of in Poland.

When we got down from the train the only uniformed man sighted was an old coddler with a shoulder belt to carry our bags. So this was Warsaw and that was the Night Express.

Teen-Age Problems

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Many mothers write wondering what they can do about some of the problems that come up with their teenage children. A while ago I read an article by H. H. Remmers and D. H. Radler in which they said that studies made of answers given by many teen-agers to questions, showed that their greatest concern is to be liked, and to feel that they "fit in." Poll after poll has shown that the youngsters are very sensitive to the opinions of others. Few teen-agers seem to admire the unusual schoolmate who has an excellent brain, with some originality and some ability to stand on his own feet, and to go his own way. Even in colleges the investigators found that most of the students look down on the type of young man who wants to go his own way and has the courage and the brains to do it.

Alvarez

Three-fourths of our high school students seem to believe that the most important thing that they can learn is how to get along with people. Actually, they are very nearly right on this point. This is why I so distrust the modern practice of parents who do not believe in helping their children in their efforts to learn how to adjust to living in this world.

Only 14 per cent of the high school students interviewed placed academic learning first in their list of requirements, and a similar trend was found in the views of college students. Some 60 per cent said they would rather be popular than brilliant; and 71 per cent felt that personality counts more than grades when it comes to getting a job. This may be well be true.

To me, one of the saddest findings brought out by the polls is that the youngsters are following many grown-ups in their worship of the supposed wisdom of "the group mind." Even in our universities the research worker and the man with a brilliant and original mind keeps running into opposition from men who keep saying to him, "Bow to the wisdom of the group." Which means, "Don't do anything new."

People ask me if there is any operation that will cure severe constipation, and my answer is that there is none that I would recommend. There is an operation that is said to cure children with what is called megacolon, or Hirschprung's disease—in which the large bowel becomes enormous, but I doubt if this would be worth trying for the adult with ordinary constipation.

Some 40 years ago a number of surgeons tried to relieve constipation by cutting nerves to the lower end of the bowel, but I guess their results were poor, because the operations were soon given up.

Some 50 years ago a few surgeons tried removing the large bowel, hoping thereby to cure insanity with so-called autointoxication or supposed poisoning derived from retained excrement, but some of the results were so bad and so disastrous that all surgeons stopped performing the operation. I rarely find anyone whose constipation is really a big problem; and practically always, then, I find a mildly psychotic person with some very queer relatives.

Thousands of women ask what to do for spells of palpitation. Usually when, as almost always happens, an electrocardiogram shows a perfectly normal heart action, except perhaps for a somewhat rapid beat; and when, as almost always happens, one finds the patient is an overly sensitive and excitable and worrisome and medicine-loving woman, whose spells come when she is "aggravated," all I can do is to exhort her not to get upset and frightened when her heart starts to beat fast, and when she becomes acutely conscious of her heart action.

The first thing she ought to do is to avoid violent arguments with her mother trying relatives. Often, if around bedtime she has a verbal fight with her sister or husband or scrappy teen-age daughter, she is likely to wake after midnight with a spell in which she thinks she is going to die. If, when called to her house, her wise old family doctor who knows her well gives her a sedative and tells her to turn over and go to sleep, all will be well. But woe unto her if she calls a new doctor who is an alarmist, or who loves to rush all of his patients to hospital, there to make 50 tests; or who loves to make all his diagnoses from tests and never from getting a history or sizing up the person. Let her get into the hands of such a man, and even if he is perfectly honest and very anxious to help her, she may be kept an invalid for years. One of the sad things is that the wise old doctor who said so truly that the trouble was all due to nerves and a tantrum is often quickly fired; while the alarmist doctor is thought the world of. She says he "really pulled me through."

FULTON dodges query

Tariff Cut To Squash Combine?

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton said Tuesday the cabinet has power to drop customs duties without consulting Parliament if the ministers are convinced a protective tariff is having the effect of continuing a combine after it has been quashed by the courts.

He was asked in the Commons banking committee by Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) to comment on reports that he had warned manufacturers of fine paper products in Canada that he might recommend the abolition of the tariff protecting that industry.

Mr. Fulton refused with a smile to confirm or deny it. Instead, he traced the tangled legalistic interpretation of the anti-combines law which permits him to demand that convicted combine members show cause why the government should not remove the protective tariff behind which the combine was built.

FLOOD OF LETTERS

Mr. Fisher said he wanted the whole matter put on the committee record because he has had a flood of correspondence from the Lakehead from workers in the fine papers mills there who fear for their jobs if the protection afforded by the tariff is removed.

Seven manufacturers of fine book and note papers were convicted in 1954 of having conspired between 1933 and 1952 to restrict unduly competition from the industry. There are other firms in the industry which were not found to be parties to the conspiracy.

Although he made no specific mention of the fine papers case, Mr. Fulton left no doubt with the committee that he wants the convicted firms to cut their prices to a reasonably competitive level, or lose the tariff protection they have.

Mr. Fulton said the philosophy behind the unusual section of the anti-combines law is that a group of firms may, working behind a protective tariff wall, conspire to raise their prices to an unwarranted level. When their combine was smashed, they might continue to charge the high prices and enjoy all the benefits of a combine without actually continuing to conspire. It was then that the government had power to step in and slash the protective tariffs.

'Loopholes' To Be Plugged

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will plug some loopholes in its controversial new combines legislation but plans no general overhaul of anti-combines law, Justice Minister Fulton said Tuesday.

Mr. Fulton said the bill is intended only to "clean up" faults the Conservative government found in the act. Later, he said, the government would consider establishing a royal commission to study a complete revision of the act, in the light of modern business practices and Canada's economic prospects.

Austria Rejects Protests on K

VIENNA (Reuters) — The Austrian cabinet decided Tuesday to inform the United States and West German ambassadors that "the Austrian government had no power to influence the content of the speeches which Khrushchev made on Austrian territory."

The cabinet instructed for-rejected a pledge by Khrushchev to protect Austrian territory.

A communique issued after the cabinet session said that only Austria can decide problems relating to its neutrality. Khrushchev said during his recent state visit here that "Russia will not remain idle" if it considers Austrian neutrality violated.

The Austrian government said it had repeatedly stated that it would welcome a guarantee of the integrity of its territory only by all four big powers, the Soviet Union, Britain, the United States and France.

NEW TREASURY BOARD 'ON GUARD' IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage Tuesday announced the appointment of a provincial treasury board to guard against what he called the abuses of the former Union Nationale government's spending methods. Mr. Lesage said that he and three other cabinet ministers will verify every expenditure of more than $15,000.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Try to Forget the Weedy Talk

The name evening primrose brings to mind a tall plant with large floppy flowers of a beautiful deep primrose yellow that is more often referred to as a weed than a desirable garden subject.

Yet it has a definite place in the larger gardens where it can be made a focal point against a backdrop of evergreens.

When its botanical name of Oenothera (ee-notb-e-ra or more correctly en-oth-ee-ra) is mentioned we find gardeners becoming really interested, for its many relatives have some of the most charming and desirable habits.

The family includes the sun-drops which open during the day, and the evening primroses which are reputed to open late in the afternoon and close by morning, although burs fail to maintain anything like a rigid schedule.

L. H. Bailey devotes a couple of pages in Hortus to the listing of cultivated species without mention of the named varieties of commerce, enough for the most fastidious gardeners to find something of merit.

MOST USEFUL
Annuals, biennials and perennials are included, and the habit of growth varies from prostrate mats and dwarfs for the rock garden to five and six-foot plants for the border, but it is the medium height, named varieties which are most useful for the general home garden.

Some of these reach a maximum of about 24 inches, smothered with typical, but not large, evening primrose flowers, above which are buds of deep to medium red which match the stems of the newer growths.

The next time someone mentions the evening primrose to you, try to forget the plant which Bailey describes as a "coarse, variable, weedy biennial" and picture in its place the ones which make outstanding plants for the border and can be made the focal point of the summer garden.

Ferry-Road Link Next Year To Northern Tip of Island

B.C. REPRESENTATIVES at a two-week civil defence course starting July 18 at Arnprior, Ont., will be Douglas Simmonds, 14, Chemainus, and Blanche Potts, 19, Duncan. The boy was chosen for the course for his proficiency in fire-fighting and first aid, and the girl for outstanding marks in home nursing.

NEW BUSINESS TAX

Alderman Protests Garage Exemption

(From Duncan Bureau) DUNCAN—Third and final reading to a new business tax bylaw was postponed by city council sitting in committee here Monday after an alderman opposed the exemption of garages from the bylaw.

Ald. J. H. Saunders said he was not against the bylaw but felt the exemption of garages would "present more of a burden to other businesses."

"You feel whatever is good for the town is good for everyone in the town?" Mayor J. T. Dobson asked.

"Absolutely," Ald. Saunders said.

Ald. Saunders said he was informed that by exempting garages from the tax the other businesses would pay about $800 more each year between themselves.

"Everybody should be under the business tax bylaw," he said. "As soon as you exempt someone you're not equalizing. I figure what's good for one should be good for all."

A ferry-road link to the northern tip of Vancouver Island will be completed next year, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said Tuesday.

"This will be a temporary measure until a 100 per cent road connection can be constructed," he said, "and that could be finished within the next five years."

Cost of the road construction will be shared roughly on a 50-50 basis between the B.C. government and the Rayonier Corporation, holders of the tree farm licence in the Port Hardy, Port Alice and Port McNeill area.

When the temporary road link is completed next year, cars and trucks will be able to travel by road from Victoria and southern Vancouver Island points to Kelsey Bay, north of Campbell River; then by fast ferry 43 miles to Beaver Cove and finally by new road to the northern communities of Port Hardy, Port McNeill and Port Alice.

Mr. Gagliardi revealed that these company towns are to become municipalities and anyone wishing to live there will be able to do so.

Recreation department surveys will soon set aside public camping sites at the most suitable locations in the area.

This means that northern Vancouver Island will cease to be dependent on Vancouver for its supplies.

Mr. Gagliardi, with Dan Campbell, MLA for Comox, flew to Port Alice Monday to view the area and discuss details with Rayonier officials.

"Because of the increase in traffic, the Campbell River-Kelsey Bay section of the present highway will have to be upgraded to top standard," Mr. Gagliardi said.

PT. ALBERNI FIREBOAT CALLED BACK TO DUTY

PORT ALBERNI—City council has approved calling of tenders to re-power, recondition and renovate the Frank Harrison, the city's fireboat, which has been out of service for some months.

Council's decision to speed up plans for putting the fireboat into service was prompted by the recent fire at Vancouver's False Creek which destroyed the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. plant.

BASEBALL PARADE APPROVED

'Anything to Wake Up The Town' Says Mayor

DUNCAN—City council has granted permission to the Duncan Pony-Colt League to hold a parade through the city centre along Canada Avenue at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 29, to publicize a dance to raise money for baseball.

The dance will follow the parade.

"Personally I'm in favor of anything that's going to wake up the town," Mayor J. T. Dobson said.

700 STILL IDLED BY FIRE HAZARD

300 Loggers Back on Job

DUNCAN—About 300 loggers have resumed operation in the woods in central Vancouver Island out of an estimated 1,000 put out of work a week ago due to the forest fire hazard.

Officials of MacMillan/Bloedel and Powell River Co. said loggers at Sproat Lake and Franklin River are back working on early shifts from 5 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Crown Zellerbach at Ladysmith and the companies at Lake Cowichan are all closed. Logging officials said operations may close down again if hot weather continues.

It was pointed out the decision to resume work in the woods is dependent on day-to-day observations of weather conditions.

NANAIMO—A fire which destroyed a barn at the north end of Diver's Lake Tuesday was seen for miles around by residents in the North Wellington district.

Cause of the fire is unknown, but within minutes flames were shooting high in the air.

North Wellington fire department kept the fire from spreading.

But it was only with difficulty that they prevented a grass fire.

Several trees surrounding the barn were damaged by the flames.

Inquiry Promised As Swimmer Hurt

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee will conduct an inquiry into a Beaver Lake swimming hazard that resulted in serious cuts to a Saanich boy at 12:55 p.m. Tuesday.

Matheus Gallard, 15, of 3932 Cumberland, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for a three-hour operation on wrist and hand tendons after he stumbled on a small tree stump and fell on another, described as "razor sharp," in about two feet of water fronting the park concession.

The accident happened as the boy was running from the water.

His condition today was good, the hospital said.

A policeman and lifeguard said the parks department should have removed a number of tree stumps that were cut off at an angle below the waterline, instead of leaving them as "extremely dangerous" hazards.

At the spot where the boy fell there are some six or eight stumps, measuring about three inches across and four inches in height, it was claimed.

"We'll look into it at once," committee chairman Ald. Milard Mooney said. "I wasn't aware there were any stumps left. We moved tons of it out of that area."

He pointed out there are "ample areas" which have been cleared for swimming, and "children should be careful where they go."

"I have seen those stumps," Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said. He felt warnings should be posted or the hazard removed.

UNUSUAL CHARGE LAID AT GANGES

Hit-and-Run Boat Owner Fined

GANGES — A Mayne Island boat owner Tuesday was fined $100 under the seldom-used charge of failing to remain at the scene of a marine accident.

He is Gordon Odberg, who was charged under the small vessel regulations of the Canada Shipping Act before Magistrate H. C. Noakes.

Odberg was caught by the RCMP vessel Sidney, based at Ganges, after a mishap Saturday evening in Ganges Harbor.

The magistrate was told Odberg's boat struck another vessel which in turn was driven into the stern of a 35-foot cruiser owned by W. M. Christensen of Seattle. Two planks were damaged.

Odberg left the scene of the accident.

HE WASN'T DRIVING BUT HE WAS LIABLE

He wasn't driving the car at the time, but David Michael White, 1135 Morris, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a speeding charge and was fined $35 and $3.50 costs.

Police charged the young motorist under the "vicarious liability" section of the Motor Vehicles Act, which makes an owner of a car responsible for the manner in which it is operated.

White had allowed another person to drive the car, which police recognized but did not stop at the time of the offence, driving 70 miles an hour in a 40 zone.

The costs were for White's failure to appear on his first summons.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

HOLLYWOOD—In this ornate suburb youth is a profession. The young walk in their sun-burnished bodies like models displaying the garments of themselves in an endless fashion show. But at Hollywood Park, in a community where the image of youth is canned to be sold in the markets of the world, Johnny Longden, the oldest man working at a major sport in this country, still toils in a hazardous game whose practitioners are referred to as boys.

Past 50, Longden is a patriarch among the stunted adolescents of the jockeys' room, conspicuous as a grandfather in a Boy Scout troop. Riders who are described as veterans were not yet born when he was an experienced jockey. The richest of all athletes, Longden's wealth is estimated at $6,000,000. But he must torture himself with fast-acting and stamina-draining heat to function at his perilous occupation.

Every morning he boils himself out in the steam room, fighting the fat of middle age. There are days, after the scales announce his weight has increased more than the normal pound of the night's accumulation, when Longden is positive he will drop his whip. He dreads being a retired millionaire without a horse to ride in competition. He can still do 114 but he has to sweat off at least a pound a day to make it. He has thought about hanging up his tack for years but the dependency is temporary. Not even a bone-breaking spill last February at Santa Anita could put him out permanently.

He intends to ride through the Hollywood meeting, but after that, he will proceed from race to race. If Fleet Nasrullah, suddenly gone sour after promising greatness, comes around, Longden will campaign with the colt when he takes to the road. The excitement of riding another big horse still claims him after 27 years.

No one understands the legend of Johnny Longden more or values the prize of youth than Marvyn LeRoy. The president of Hollywood Park is one of the historic movie makers and his pictures range from "Random Harvest" to "No Time for Sergeants." The plant reflects his showman's impulses and the controlling efficiency of James D. Stewart, the general manager, who dilutes the horse players' small comforts.

In other places, guys who operate race tracks generally narrate statistics to praise their joints. But LeRoy uses figures. He asked me if I heard about the Hollywood matron who telephoned her physician and complained she was desperately sick.

"Come immediately," the lady said. "I think I'm dying."

"I'll be there as soon as I can," the doctor said.

"Hurry up," she insisted. "I don't want to miss the daily double at Hollywood Park."

I left LeRoy on the director's mezzanine where the famous youth-cannibals pored over their scratch sheets, and went down to the jockeys' room where Longden, wrinkled and pudgy, played gin with a valet. His left wrist is still braced with adhesive tape from the fall at Santa Anita which also fractured his ankle.

"I used to take three or four hours a day in the hot-box," said the greatest lead rider of this time. "Now it's generally an hour. All I have to get off every day now is a pound. It used to be more than that. I eat only one meal a day and drink a medicated liquid instead of breakfast and lunch. As long as my weight stays this way, I'll keep riding."

I wanted him to explain why he keeps going but he couldn't.

"It just comes down to I like to ride," he said.

The two races Longden won last Saturday made it the 5,432nd time he has come by the finish line first, more than any other jock since the sport began. Every time his number goes up, Longden establishes a new record.

On July 2 Longden got there fastest in a couple of sprints and then held Silver Spoon together across the mile and a quarter to take down 10 per cent of a $38,450 stake. The trophy was presented by Walt Disney who usually does business with children.

Farmers Squash Breakaway Threat

Farmer Construction is hanging closer than a shadow to Mayo Lumber in the Central Park Senior Softball League.

Just when it seemed that Mayors might be ready to break away at last, Farmers came up with a 2-0 victory Tuesday night to stamp out the breakaway threat.

If the Lumbermen had won, they would have been two games in front. As it is, Farmers are now virtually in a tie with the Duncan club.

Don Lyon, who pitched a four-hitter, can give a portion of the credit for the win to

B.C.E. Tournament

6:45—M. Muir and C. Tolson vs. Wally Lee and L. Northing.
7:15—M. Sturgeson and M. McKenzie vs. T. Wilson and J. Dunbar. P. LaFave and H. Lee vs. J. Fairman and J. Sam.

NEW REDWOOD: Mike Mayors, 156, Boston, stopped Willie Greene, 180, Providence, R.I., 5.
LOS ANGELES: Hagg Arnesen, 127, Los Angeles, knocked out Ramon Sacramento, 121, Mexico, Mex., 4.

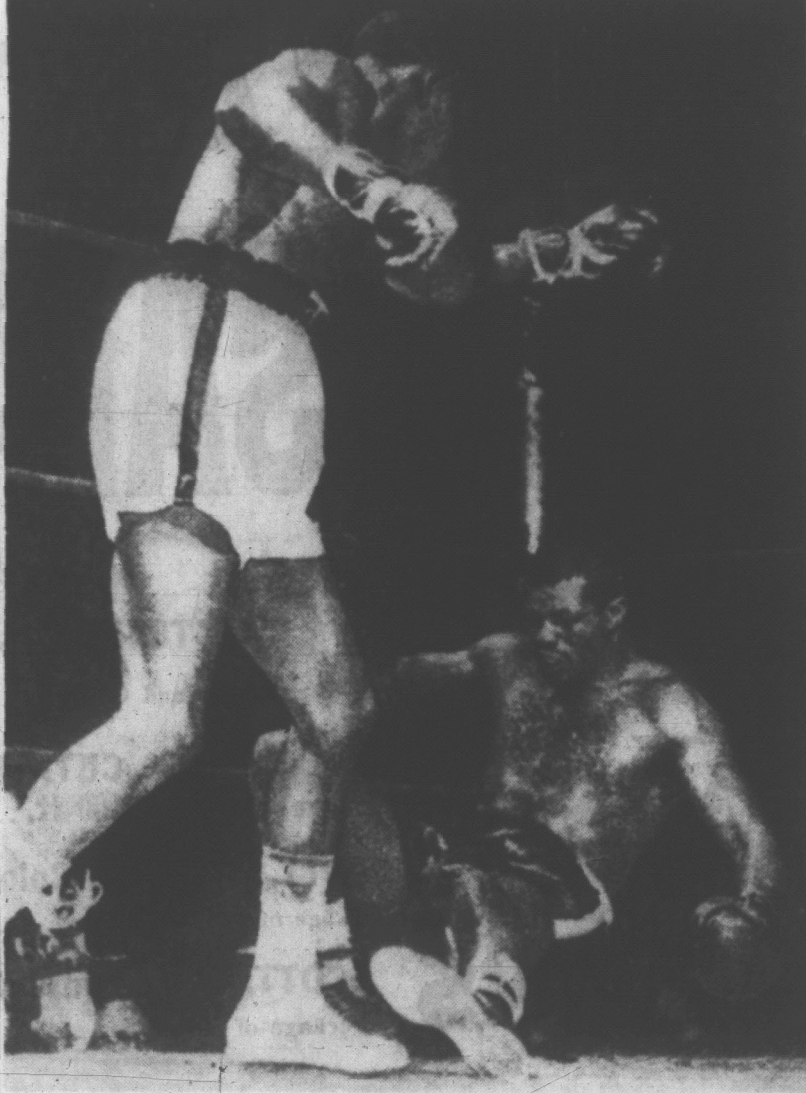

FROM PLAYBOY TO SEMI-HERMIT

NEW YORK (UPI)—Young Bill Fugazy, brand new president of Feature Sports, Inc., disclosed today that Ingemar Johansson, well-known Swedish playboy, will become a semi-hermit while training for his next fight with heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Dapper, dark-haired Fugazy—who was elevated to the FSI presidency Tuesday—made the Johansson disclosure this morning just before flying to the west for an investigation of possible sites for the fight.

Since disclosed Ingemar lost the heavyweight crown to Patterson on a fifth-round knockout, June 20, the reports have been increasing that his training "left much to be desired," prexy Bill said.

"Ingemar telephoned me from Copenhagen yesterday," he continued. "And he said he would not train at any resort hotel this time. Instead,

SUGAR GETS HIS LUMPS

It was bitter experience for Garnet "Sugar" Hart as he ended up knock-out victim of welterweight champion Benny "Kid" Pareti's right hand at New York Tuesday night. Hart landed in sitting position, tried to get back on feet but still had one knee on canvas when referee tolled 10. Knockout came in sixth round of non-title fight. It was first non-televised bout in Madison Square Garden in nine years.

SOLARIUM DERBY

CENTURY CLUB

Until last summer, Walt Spaven was probably the only member of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association who had never caught a fish. Now he is probably the only member who has caught only one fish.

Walt broke the ice when he reeled in a 3 1/2-pound coho on his only fishing trip last year. It was a guess that big Walt isn't really interested in catching big salmon. He belongs to the VSIAA because of the Solarium Salmon Derby, which is co-sponsored by the VSIAA and the Daily Times.

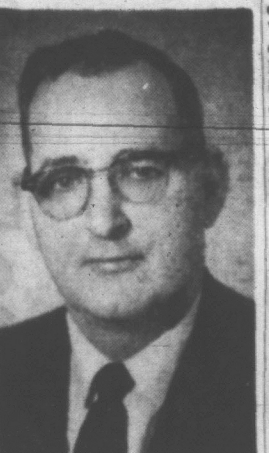

It all started six years ago when Spaven visited the Queen Alexandra Solarium. He was impressed by the work being done to help crippled children and immediately asked what he could do to help.

Walt was told about the Solarium Derby, which has raised a total of $73,499 for the hospital, and since then has been one of the hardest workers with the derby committee.

Each year he has sold derby tickets in the lobby of the Odeon Theatre and most times has topped the 1,000 mark. Back at his usual stand, Walt has quickly qualified for this year's Century Club, reserved for those who sell more than 100 tickets for the one-day fishing competition at Saanich Inlet, and again hopes to come close to the 1,000 standard.

Derby day is Sunday, July 24, and Spaven is still a considerable distance from his goal, but he's still hoping.

"I'd like to see more people stop at the Odeon booth," says Walt. "Every dollar helps those youngsters at the Solarium."

New Government Sworn in Office

FREDERICTON (CP) — Louis J. Robichaud was sworn in as Liberal premier of New Brunswick here Tuesday night before a shirt-sleeved crowd that overflowed the legislature.

MICHAEL FEKECS
fast life.

NEAR DEATH

Accused Slayer of 6 Shot Down

UNION, N.J. (AP) — Michael Fekecs, a Hungarian refugee accused of murdering six persons, was in a coma in hospital bed today, a policeman's bullet lodged in the base of his skull.

The end of one of the most intense manhunts in the state's history came Tuesday night when Fekecs tried to shoot it out with two policemen on a dirt road in a wooded area.

Fekecs, a 25-year-old lover of sports cars, formal clothes and jazz records, was being sought by police for questioning in connection with the slaying of two policemen last Sunday.

The search gathered momentum Tuesday after Middlesex County prosecutor Edward J. Dolan said that Fekecs had killed the two policemen and had slain four other persons on a North Brunswick estate last January.

Fekecs spotted the two policemen first and opened fire. A return shot ripped through the fugitive's forehead and brain and lodged at the base of his skull.

Doctors said the bullet had caused a massive brain hemorrhage and Fekecs was not expected to live.

Fekecs was picked up Sunday for driving with a revoked operator's licence.

The two arresting patrolmen took him to his apartment so he could fetch $250 for bail. They were later found slain on the floor of the one-room apartment.

Dolan said ballistics tests showed the same gun was used to kill four persons on the estate of Dr. Francis Clarke last January 26.

An unknown person entered Clarke's home while he was away performing an operation, tied up four persons and shot each through the temple with a .32-calibre pistol.

A-Arms Pool For Research Urged By U.S.

GENEVA (Reuters) — The United States Tuesday asked Russia to join in establishing a nuclear weapons pool for use in research into underground explosions.

U.S. delegate James Wadsworth made the proposal at a 75-minute closed meeting of the three-power nuclear test ban conference.

He stressed that it went far to meet the Soviet demand for detailed inspection of any nuclear weapons used for research into the detection of underground explosions to permit a test ban treaty.

Under the proposal, Russia, Britain and the U.S. would supply equal quantities of nuclear devices of older designs. All the devices would be open for inspection to ensure they were safe and suitable for research purposes. This would ensure they would not contribute to weapons development.

Sky's the Limit In Crow Shoot At North Saanich

Nimrods with an urge to do some shooting they can crow about are invited to get their bag of birds in a Sunday hunt organized by Sidney and North Saanich Gun Club.

Their aim: elimination of the pest: crows in North Saanich district. The sky is the limit.

Hunters, under gun club and game department supervision, will seek their noisy prey in the North Saanich woods and on off-shore islands in the vicinity.

For information, gunmen may call club members Bill Orchard, GR 5-2812 or Doug Jack, GR 5-2337, both after 5 p.m. or RCMP Cpl. William Stanton, GR 5-1593.

CABINET STUDYING JOBLESS AID

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet and an interdepartmental committee are studying various methods which could be adopted by the federal government to combat unemployment, a government source said Tuesday night.

The source said the main study is being made by a committee of economists and other officials of the departments of labor, finance and trade.

He said the studies have not yet proceeded to a point where concrete recommendations can be made. However, he said there is a definite intention on the part of the government to put forward suggestions before long.

More Probation Officers Needed Aldermen Told

Greater Victoria's new Family and Juvenile Court is in operation now with central offices at the city welfare building, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson told city welfare committee Tuesday.

But the need for more probation staff is evident already, she said.

"Our probation officer is setting down now but is already swamped with work," she said.

"One probation officer is not going to be sufficient. We should have three."

The probation officer and his salary is provided by the provincial government.

POLICE GET 'VALUABLE INFORMATION'

Kidnapped Boy May Be Alive

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Police are convinced that eight-year-old Graeme Thorne, kidnapped five days ago, is still alive.

Superintendent Ronald Walden announced Tuesday night: "We have received a great deal of valuable information from certain sources and we now are hopeful that we will find the boy and return him safely to his parents."

Graeme disappeared after leaving home for school July 7. Two hours later a man with a foreign accent called the boy's parents demanding a ransom of £25,000 Australian.

Since then the Thornes have been waiting for a further call to arrange a meeting to hand over the money. But the phone has stayed silent.

The boy's father, Basil Thorne, won £100,000 in a lottery last month.

WOMAN PRESIDENT, NO! WHAT DOES SHE HAVE...?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mrs. India Edwards, long-time prominent Democrat, said there would be no female president in her lifetime because women don't support their own sex.

A female candidate would have other women asking, "what does she have that I don't."

'Black Versus Black Real Congo Problem'

Church Workers Unharmed

By The Associated Press
There are about 2,000 Protestant missionaries in the strife-torn Congo but today not one has been harmed, says Rev. Theodore L. Tucker of the National Council of Churches in New York.
Tucker, who is executive secretary of the Africa committee of the council's division of foreign missions, made his report after rounding up messages coming by cable, shortwave and by telephone to mission board offices, the state department and ham operators along the Atlantic seaboard.
Although none had been harmed, according to the reports, there were at least 200 in trouble. An American physician, Dr. Mark Poole, radioed Washington that 150 Americans, mostly missionaries, are waiting to be evacuated from Luluabourg in south central Congo.

A radio operator at Nairobi in Kenya heard that more than 50 American missionaries and their families were besieged by Negro soldiers in the town of Aketi, 200 miles north of Stanleyville and had appealed to the White House for rescue. Tucker said that of the 2,000 Protestant missionaries, 1,200 were Americans, 500 British and 300 Scandinavians.

Two Cabinet Posts Filled By Douglas

REGINA (CP) — Two CCF members elected to the Saskatchewan Legislature for the first time June 8 were named to cabinet positions Monday by Premier T. C. Douglas.

A. M. Nicholson, former CCF member of Parliament and one of Saskatoon's three members, was appointed minister of social welfare succeeding T. J. Bentley who has retired.

Olaf Turnbull, a Kindersley district farmer elected in Elrose, was named minister of co-operation and co-operative development, a portfolio held by Premier Douglas.

Three other cabinet posts remain vacant following retirement of ministers before the provincial election.

Mr. Nicholson, 59, represented Mackenzie in the House of Commons from 1940 to 1949. He was re-elected in 1953 and defeated in the 1958 Progressive Conservative sweep. He is married and has two daughters and a son.

Mr. Turnbull, 42, married with five children, entered provincial politics for the first time June 8.

Still to be filled are cabinet posts held by Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines, Highways Minister J. T. Douglas and J. H. Sturdy, minister without portfolio.

Standing following the June 8 election: CCF 38, Liberal 17.

Unless the present thrust in the new Congo Republic is smoothed over soon and Belgians persuaded to remain, the immediate future for the country is complete economic and political collapse, a former Victorian forecast Tuesday night.

John Smart, now of Plainsfield, N.J., is editor of The Fields, a news magazine for 1,200 Christian Brethren missionaries all over the world.

He has just returned from a fact-finding tour of the Congo and revealed some of his findings to a meeting in the Victoria Gospel Hall.

The Congolese, he said, were not at all fit for independence. There was not a single native doctor in the whole population of 13,000,000; not a trained educator and not a lawyer.

Although the Congo was the world's greatest producer of commercial diamonds and wealthy in copper, gold and tin, it did not possess any engineers of its own capable of running the mines.

In addition, most of the people had no idea what independence meant — they thought it was some sort of gigantic Santa Claus travelling the country distributing a life of plenty for all!

There were, of course, a number of people only too willing to exploit the situation. Simple natives had been told once independence came all the whites would leave and their property handed over. They also thought independence would free children from the control of their parents, free parents from control of the law, and free policemen from the control of their officers! They thought, in fact, that each person would be a law unto himself.

Much of the blame for this wild shout for independence without knowing what it was about, Mr. Smart laid at the door of Russia, Egypt and China, who had been beaming in radio propaganda for a number of years.

Radio Peking, he claimed, was received better than any other station in the world, and their programs were in perfect Swahili and designed to catch the ears of the populace.

He praised the Belgian administration in the Congo during the past few years — in fact they and the missionaries had been too kind and provided everything so that the natives really thought they were owed a living.

The real problem, he said, was not black versus white, but rather black versus black. Antagonism between tribes was enormous.

Political parties refused to co-operate with Premier Patrice Lumumba simply because he was not of the same tribe.

5 DIE, 2,000 ARRESTS IN INDIA STRIKE-RIOT

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) — Five persons were killed and more than 2,000 arrested as a nation-wide walk-out by government workers gathered momentum Tuesday night.

Strikers and non-strikers clashed in the west India town of Dohad and police opened fire after tear gas failed to disperse them. One man was killed and six wounded. Four of these died later.

CANADA-RUSSIA TRADE PACT CRITICIZED

Wheat Sales Endangered Pearson Tells Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — The new Russian-Canadian trade agreement was approved by the Commons Tuesday after a dispute between Opposition Leader Pearson and Trade Minister Churchill on the value of the $2-and-for-$1 ratio of Russian purchases to sales by Canada in the U.S.S.R.

Mr. Pearson contended this is "an undesirable principle" to embody in the three-year pact, signed in Moscow last April as a successor to a three-year trade agreement negotiated in 1956.

Instead of expanding trade, Mr. Pearson said, "it is more likely to limit trade." Wheat particularly was likely to be affected.

Mr. Churchill said the agreement provides for Russian purchases of $25,000,000 annually — half of it in wheat — and Canadian purchases of $12,500,000.

The $2-for-$1 formula represented a considerable concession by the Russians whose policy in trade agreements was to balance trade with each country, Canada was the only country from which Russia had agreed to buy more than she sold.

NOT A RESTRICTION

The formula was misunderstood and was not a restriction, Mr. Churchill said. The $25,000,000 and $12,500,000 figures were minimums. Trade beyond those amounts would be on a $1-for-$1 basis.

Mr. Pearson argued that Canada will have to buy $6,000,000 worth of Russian goods annually before being able to sell Russia as much as last year, when sales totalled some $12,000,000.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue said the agreement may not be as good as the 1956 treaty but it was unrealistic to expect to export four, five or six times as much as Canada is prepared to buy from Russia.

Mr. Churchill said trade missions may be exchanged between both countries this year. This would help understanding of the two different trading systems — state trading in Russia and private enterprise in Canada — by businessmen and officials in both countries.

LIQUOR PROFIT INCREASES 26%

RESOLUTE BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — The Northwest Territories Council was told today that the territorial liquor system recorded a net profit of $642,224 in the fiscal year ended March 31 on sales totaling $1,516,263.

The profit was up nearly 26 per cent from the previous year. Liquor is the largest single revenue earner in the Northwest Territories.

B.C. Packers Net Profit Slashed 50%

VANCOUVER (CP) — The net profit of British Columbia Packers Ltd. for the year ended last March 31 was 50 per cent lower than the previous year despite a drop of only 11 per cent in gross revenue.

Chairman and president J. M. Buchanan blamed "frustrating conditions encountered in B.C."

The B.C. industry produced only 1,077,097 cases of canned salmon during the season, compared with 1,900,025 cases in the previous year.

"Although a below-average pack was anticipated, the results reflect a serious loss of production caused by a two-week strike at the peak of the season," Mr. Buchanan said.

Production at the company's Nova Scotia plants was up 46 per cent, partly as the result of the purchase of a third trawler.

While the whaling fleet had the largest catch to date — 842 — low prices resulted in a loss on the operation and whaling was not resumed in 1960.

Mr. Buchanan forecast bigger salmon production next year and said marketing of fresh and frozen products would benefit from a smaller discount on the United States dollar and from the lifting of Britain's restrictions on imports of frozen salmon and halibut.

Former Sidney Roofing Co. dock (circle) at south-west end of Johnson St. bridge, now owned by Harbor Marine, yacht brokers, will be Victoria terminus for new high-speed hydrofoil service slated to start early in August. Possible terminus for yet another

August Take-Off Set On Hydrofoil Service

Tests Next Week For Speedy Craft

High-speed hydrofoil service linking Victoria and Bellingham definitely will start early in August.

This assurance was given today by Mayor John E. Westford of Bellingham, an active supporter of the project.

Mayor Westford told the Times today the hydrofoil itself arrived at Portland, Ore., this week. It is being uncrated and reassembled, and will likely go on short test runs next week.

The diesel-powered craft is being leased by Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co. Ltd., of Bellingham from the H. M. Heldemann Co. of New York, which had been operating the hydrofoil in the Puerto Rico area.

toria "in the first few days of August" for demonstration rides for press and public, and the scheduled service would start shortly after.

He has been interested in the hydrofoil idea since he met the president of the Heldemann company in Europe a year ago. Head of the development company in Bellingham is D. Murray Mason, west coast vice-president.

SEATTLE TOO

Mr. Mason states that, if the trial service is successful, application will be made to extend it to Seattle. He said at least four hydrofoils will be ordered from U.S. shipyards.

As proof of the practicality of hydrofoils, Mayor Westford pointed out that two are being built in Norway, to operate a coastal service between Bergen and Stavanger, a distance of about 100 miles.

TWO HOURS

A direct Victoria-Seattle route by water would be 85 miles, and Mr. Mason estimates the hydrofoil could do it in two hours.

Victoria terminus of the service will be at Harbor Marine, at the Esquimalt end of the Johnson Street Bridge. Harbor Marine is a newly-formed Canadian company which operates a yacht brokerage and small-craft service and also represents Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co. in Canada.

JUST A MEMORY TODAY is this stately elm in front of 1625 Hampshire Road which grew more than 40 feet high over the years to become one of the tallest elms in Greater Victoria. It was cut down Tuesday on instructions of Oak Bay municipality following complaints that its giant root system was heaving pipes, sidewalks and a driveway. "I am sorry to see it go," said a sad neighbor, Mrs. J. Watt of 1631 Hampshire, as a tree surgeon removed it from the boulevard.—(Times Photo by Strickland.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I am not given to boasting about my unique abilities. But yesterday I accomplished something so out-of-the-ordinary, I feel I must record it for posterity.

I hit myself on the head and knocked myself down, skinned an elbow and causing an economy-size headache.

If you think this was easy to do, you are quite wrong. It took extreme skill, co-ordination, and a mind so far absent it's a wonder it has come home yet.

In case you want to try it some time, here is how I accomplished it:

I was leaving the garage, and reached up to pull down the overhead door, which is balanced on counter-weights.

I then stood there, thinking about something else, while the garage door descended inexorably and conked me on the noggin, causing the lights to go out and my athletic body to crumple to the floor.

You will please forgive me for this bit of boasting.

I cannot remember for sure what I was thinking about during the above episode.

But it may have been the collection of unhappy animals and avaricious people which have been infesting Victoria West Park for the past couple of days.

I hope and trust this will be the last time the authorities of this fair city permit a "circus" to invade the neighborhood.

Not only for the sake of the poor benighted beasts pacing behind the bars of their cages.

But for the sake of us country cousins who seem to be so willing to be "taken" by the city slickers.

On the other hand, I may have been thinking about the difficulty of measuring the tourist-traffic in these parts.

Just the other day, I read some encouraging figures about the number of tourists arriving here via the government ferries from the mainland to Sidney.

Also just the other day, some tourists coming down Douglas Street to the roundup asked me the way to Wharf Street.

"You catching the ferry?" I asked.

"Yup," they said. "Just arrived at Sidney, now we're heading for Port Angeles."

On the OTHER hand, I probably wasn't thinking.

A VICTORIA ARMY officer, Lieutenant-Colonel R. A. Smilie will be appointed commanding officer of First Field Ambulance Northwest Europe, headquarters at Ottawa announced today. For the past two years, he has been area medical officer at Vancouver headquarters' British Columbia area.

Alaska Governor To Get Salute

Governor William Egan of Alaska will receive a 19-gun salute when he arrives in Victoria next Monday evening for a conference with B.C. cabinet ministers, Premier Bennett announced today.

The premier said the two-day conference will deal with all mutual opportunities for developing the north, including industrial development, transportation and tourist business.

SKINDIVER TORPEDOED BY URCHIN

Two spikes from a small sea urchin have laid up a skindiver in St. Joseph's Hospital since Sunday.

Raymond Lindstrom, a member of Victoria Bohemians skindiving club, was competing in the skindiving competitions off Ogden Point breakwater when another competitor accidentally dived on top of him, forcing his hand on to a sea urchin. The spikes pierced the palm of his hand.

He went to hospital for treatment but was detained. A spokesman for the hospital said today Lindstrom was in good condition.

City Parks Report Shows Busy June

City parks are humming with activity this year, monthly report by parks administrator W. H. Warren indicated today.

A record kept of civic greenhouse production this year shows 2,834 flats and 700 pots were handled — which put more than 165,000 plants on view in parks and flower baskets.

June also was the busiest month ever recorded in use of city sports fields.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Richard George Ballendine, 431 Government, $15 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Joe Quon Tay, 807 Kings, $20 for following another vehicle too closely.

Donald John Matheson, HMCS Naden, $10 for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Edward Mitchuk, 89 Wellington, $20 for failing to stop at an occupied crosswalk.

Kenneth J. Ozero, 348 Gorge, $10 for driving through a red light.

Graham A. McKay, HMCS Naden, $45 for careless driving.

60% Capacity For New B.C. Ferries

The new B.C. government ferries Tsawwassen and Sidney have averaged 60 per cent capacity loads since the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen service started June 15.

This information came today from Highways Minister Gagliardi interviewed in Vancouver.

He made the comment while revealing he has asked president George Paulin of Black Ball Ferries Ltd. to build another ferry for the Horseshoe Bay-Nanaimo run.

He said a new ferry would permit one of the present vessels to be used to augment service on the Black Ball Howe Sound-Jervis Inlet run.

Black Ball officials gave the request a cool reception.

PREMIER HAPPY

Meanwhile in Victoria Premier Bennett said at a press conference traffic on the government ferries between Swartz Bay and the mainland "exceeded all expectations."

"I have seen no report on the actual amount of traffic as yet," he said, "and did not expect to since the ferries have been operating less than a month."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Winners of Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club Howell tournament held at Holyrood House Tuesday were:

North-South: 1. Bill Simpson-Baikle, Les Stewart; 2 and 3 (tied), Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Elizabeth Warren, George Morgan; 4. Dorothy McConnell, Hilda Price.

Individual tournament: 1. Laura Tingley; 2. Jim Duprau; 3 and 4 (tied), Isabel Artlett and Dora Duprau; 5. Dick Lipsey; 6. Frank Artlett.

Austin William Patenaude, 1248 Goldstream, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a charge of impaired driving on Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway.

Police said the man drove at 50 miles an hour in a 30 zone, increased to 55 in a 40 zone, went onto the wrong side of the highway, came back to the right side, went onto the gravel shoulder, then skidded 30 feet sideways when he applied brakes at the sound of a police siren.

Joseph W. Trodden, 18, of 1353 Pembroke, was fined $20 when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to being a minor in possession of beer. Police said they found a part bottle under the front seat of the car in which he was hiding.

The Canadian Government icebreaker CGS Camself, which left Victoria July 5, arrived at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Wednesday to take on fuel and water before proceeding to the Western Arctic.

The icebreaker is giving support to convoys carrying supplies to DEW line outposts throughout the north.

Royal Jubilee Hospital hospital apparently didn't suit a 22-year-old Victorian who fell from a second-storey fire escape at 11 p.m. Tuesday.

City police took Darrell Smith, 819 Fort Street, to hospital with a suspected back injury after the fall. They were called by Barry Jackson of the same address.

But at 1:40 a.m. hospital officials reported to police Smith had slipped out a hospital window, leaving behind an empty wallet, shirt and socks.

City parks committee chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney and parks administrator W. H. Warren today left for Portland, Ore., to attend the two-day convention of the International Northwest Parks Association.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What language do Eskimos speak? I mean apart from Eskimo, K.H.

A. Any language they learn, plus Eskimo. Eskimos all speak the same language, with only differences by dialect.

Q. In modern idiom, what does "ball" and "dig" and "send" mean? L.W.

A. They mean, as asked, a good time, understanding, and appreciation.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

A boy who ran across traffic lanes in the middle of Johnson Street bridge and was in collision with a car at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday is in satisfactory condition with a broken leg today.

City police said Wynn Boothroyd, 13, of 1326 Coventry, ran into the path of a car driven by John W. Jones, 854 Phoenix, and was taken to Jubilee Hospital with leg injury and head cuts.

A total of about 700 people visited two shows of the Grand Ole Opry in Victoria Curling Club Tuesday night.

An official at the club said people "didn't turn out too well" and the second show in particular was "pretty poor."

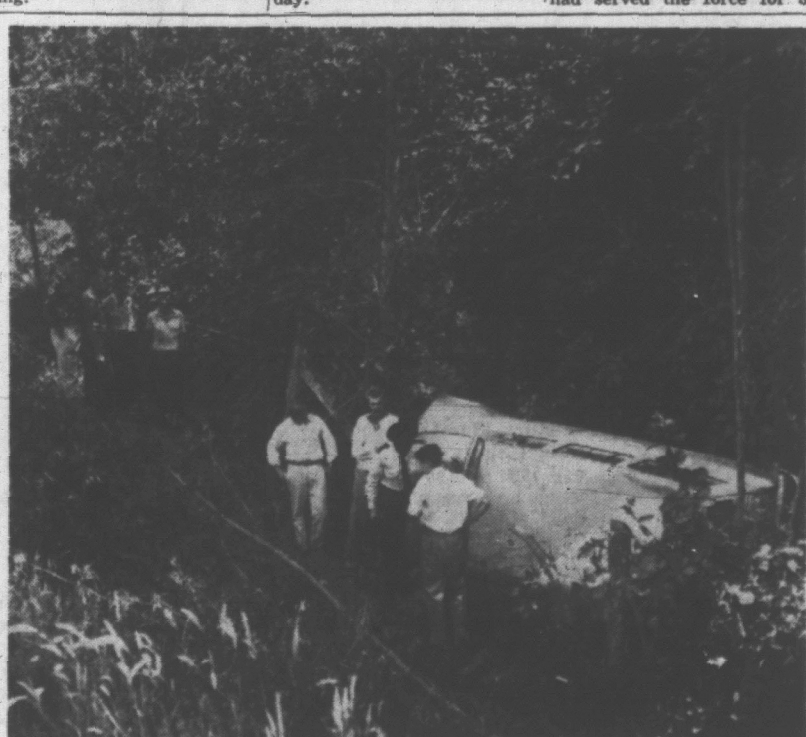

Those who did attend were a very appreciative crowd but a visiting circus affected attendance considerably, it was felt.

Six new outbreaks of fire in forests of Vancouver Island and the southern coastal mainland areas were reported in the past 24 hours by the B.C. Forest Service. None were believed serious.

There will be few local cherries on the market this month due to poor pollination this spring, but elsewhere in the province the crop is average, B.C. horticulturists reported today.

Picking started this week in Saanich, but the cherries are so few in orchards that growers are finding it hardly worth while picking them for marketing.

Keith Sedgman, Tanner Road, owner of a large orchard, said apart from poor pollination wild pigeons also reduced his crop.

HURLED HALF WAY through the windshield when the 1959 model station wagon he drove spun off Patricia Bay Highway and rolled down a bank near Sayward at 10:35 a.m. today, Grant Craig Listter, 39, of 1837 Feltham, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and admitted in fair condition with head injury. Police said Listter drove south, lost control of the vehicle and it left the pavement, rolled over a 15-foot ditch, through a wire fence and came to rest on its left side facing north between two trees, a total wreck. — (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

MADE FRIENDS EVERYWHERE HE SERVED

Tom Parsons Knew B.C.

Thomas W. A. Parsons, for many years head of the B.C. Provincial Police force in the post of commissioner, died here early today.

His death came as a shock to many who had seen him, apparently in splendid health, during the past two days.

Mrs. Parsons found her husband dead in bed at their home at 977 Foul Bay Road early this morning, presumably from a heart attack. He was 77 years old but had never suffered any major illness.

He had returned just recently from a visit to his son, Richard, in New York.

"STUNNED" "I was absolutely stunned when I heard he had gone," said Cecil Clark, who served under Commissioner Parsons as inspector and was later deputy commissioner.

"I met him in the B.C. Archives only last Monday and told him how fit he was looking. I never knew a man who carried his age better."

Commissioner Parsons retired from the Provincial Police in November, 1947. He had served the force for 35 years under eight attorneys-general.

HEADED SCOUTS

A month later, Commissioner Parsons was appointed provincial commissioner of the Boy Scouts' Association of British Columbia which he served with distinction in a volunteer capacity.

He also served for a time as administrator of the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Commissioner Parsons' long career with the provincial police took him all over the province, and he was known to hundreds of Indians as "Tomp Parson." Cowboys and ranchers alike were his friends and he knew people in all walks of life.

He joined the provincial police in 1912 and was first stationed at Kitselas. The following year he was transferred to Terrace, and in 1914 was made Chief Constable in the Peace River District with headquarters at Fort St. John.

In 1917 he was transferred to Kamloops and in 1918 appointed deputy inspector. Later he saw service with the police at Prince George and Prince Rupert.

HERE IN 1924

In 1924 he was moved to Victoria and placed in charge of "A" division comprising Vancouver Island.

Charges Laid In Laundromat Coin Box Theft

Bail was set at $1,500 each for three young men charged in city police court today with burglary and theft in connection with removal of coin boxes at a Quadra laundromat early Tuesday.

An estimated $90 in change was contained in nine coin receptacles police recovered at a Kings Road apartment just around the corner from the burglary.

A joint charge was read to Robert Dunbar, no fixed address; Sidney Travers, 335 Richmond and Grant Shaver, of Victoria. Police allege breaking, entering and theft at Sparkle Bright Launderette, 2584 Quadra, at about 4:15 a.m. Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady asked that "substantial" bail be set.

Lawns Getting a Suntan? Try This New Sprinkler

By PENNY SAVER

Warm weather is wonderful for acquiring a tan but if you are having a struggle keeping your lawns from getting that golden-hue too, you'd better take a look at oscillating sprinklers that are selling in one downtown store at prices well below some I've seen. Smaller model, that will water a radius of about 30 feet by 40 feet, sells at $5.95 while larger sprinkler, covering a space of 45 feet by 60 feet, costs $8.95.

Dial on sprinkler allows you to adjust according to need — no risk of spraying sidewalks, garage or passers-by. Sealed motor keeps water from motor mechanism and permanently seals out grime.

When one area is completely covered you simply pull along to next position. There's an unconditional one year's guarantee on each of these moderately priced machines which are selling like proverbial hotcakes.

Proud of your city? Show it by wearing one of the smart silk Italian scarves that have just arrived in town. Scarves measure about 26 inches square and are priced at $2.95. On backgrounds of either turquoise, red, tan or blue are pictures depicting Thunderbird Park, the Parliament Buildings, Christ Church Cathedral and other points of interest.

If you're thinking of getting a new tote handbag large enough to take all the bits and pieces that you gather on a holiday trip, yet smart enough to take anywhere and be proud of, you'll love new imported plastic bags that come complete with attached holder and matching umbrella. Complete bag set sells for $9.95.

Department buyer tells me that plastic is "big news" in fashion this year and, seeing these beauties, I'm inclined to agree with her. You can choose from either black, brown, navy or a smart number in grey tweed effect with black top and handles.

Matching rayon umbrellas have short handles, measure about 21 inches, and have a dainty scalloped edge to tops. This is a real buy!

WHY GROW OLD?

Underweight Gals Should Learn to Relax—Be Calm

Usually those who bemoan their extra poundage make such loud noises that we who write about such things are apt to overlook the underweight gals. Yet lack of curves can be a great source of unhappiness to a woman.

I have written many times about the importance of enough sleep, a well-balanced diet, mild exercises and rest before meals. I have advised five or six small meals rather than three large ones for the one who wishes to gain. Perhaps I have not emphasized enough another factor.

The underweight person often is very energetic and also very nervous. She can burn up energy while sitting down. She fidgets while she sits and indulges in all kinds of unnecessary motions.

In fact she seldom relaxes. Enormous amounts of energy are lost in nervous mannerisms. She may swing her foot vigorously, cross and uncross her legs or tap the arms of the chair from nervousness. If you are underweight, you should take every opportunity to relax.

You can relax while riding a bus or when in a car if you are not driving. You will not get there any faster by being tense.

The underweight woman is likely to be tense emotionally. She worries about things she cannot change or things which never will happen. She makes mountains out of the molehills. She crumbles at "crises" which occur in daily life rather than meeting them with a relaxed and humorous viewpoint. Emotional tension consumes energy.

So learn to relax and be calm when trying to gain those pounds!

If you would like to have my bust development routine, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Fresh cherries are now on the market. They make a high point in summer eating, especially in this appealing dessert.

Cherry Shortcake Real Summer Treat

Ever try sweet, fresh cherries in a shortcake? It's a zesty and bright dessert for summertime eating — especially when warm weather appetites become a little jaded.

This treat of a sweet would be something special for your next patio party. But don't be surprised if it disappears in a wink. It's cherry season, so make this shortcake soon!

FRESH CHERRY SHORTCAKE

Combine 3 cups pitted, fresh, sweet cherries (1½ pounds), ¼ cup hot water, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon salt. Bring to boiling point, reduce heat and simmer 2 minutes. Remove from heat and set aside to cool. Sift 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour with 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Add ½ cup butter or margarine and cut in with two knives or a pastry blender until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Pour 1 beaten egg into a measuring cup and add milk to make ½ cup. Stir into dry ingredients. Mix well, but do not overmix. Divide dough into two equal portions and pat each in a lightly greased 9-inch round, layer cake pan. Bake in a preheated hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes or until browned over the top. Turn out onto a wire cooling rack. Cool. About 30 minutes before serving, place one layer of shortcake on a serving plate. Whip 1 cup heavy cream, sweeten with 2 tablespoons sugar and spread a layer over the shortcake. Cover with half the cherries. Top with second layer and remaining cherries. Garnish with whipped cream. If desired, add more whipped cream when serving. (Yield: six to eight servings.)

Another cherry surprise is molded fresh cherry ice cream. It's a cool, easy dessert to prepare and you'll be the most popular housewife and mother in the neighborhood if you serve it to the kiddies when temperatures soar!

MOLDED FRESH CHERRY ICE CREAM

Wash two cups sweet cherries. Remove stems and pits. Chop cherries fine. Soften 1 quart vanilla ice cream and fold in the pitted and chopped cherries. Turn into a 5-cup mold. Freeze until firm. About 1 hour before serving turn out onto a serving plate. Frost with 1 cup heavy cream which has been whipped and sweetened with 1 tablespoon sugar. Return to freezer to harden the cream. (Yield: 10 to 12 servings.)

Couple Wed in Centennial United

Of interest in Saskatchewan and Alberta is the marriage in Victoria of Ruth Helen Erlendson, daughter of Mrs. Alice Sommerfield of Radville, Sask., and Donald John Shes-topalski, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Shes of Camrose, Alta.

They were united in holy matrimony by Rev. S. J. Parsons in Centennial United Church.

For the double-ring ceremony the bride chose a full-skirted, pale blue lace-overs-taffeta gown. A medium blue chiffon drape across the bodice formed a V-back and extended to the hem of her ballerina-length gown. A band of white flowers held her shoulder-length white veil. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

Bride was given in marriage by Maurice Jacques, and Mrs. Donald Arnatt sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Bride's sister, Mrs. Lue Jacques, was matron of honor. She wore a ballerina-length pink nylon sheer, over pink taffeta dress. Her colonial bouquet consisted of pink and white carnations.

Dennis Litchfield was best man and Raymond Erlendson and John Plasek ushered.

For her mainland honeymoon the bride chose a white nylon sheer-overs-taffeta dress. The floral print frock was enhanced by white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Upon returning the newlyweds made their home at 1030 Costin Avenue.

Only out-of-town guest at the wedding was father of the groom, N. Shes.

Daughter Of British Author Here

By Judy Nicholson

It was a long drive across the United States, but Mrs. J. Duxbury, the former Trudy McGill of this city, thanks her lucky stars she had another competent driver to accompany her on the motor trip from Boston.

"With the two children, Beth and Susan, a trip like that can be long and arduous. But with the help of my friend, Aurioi Fakington, we made it with little fuss," says Mrs. Duxbury. "My husband also motored across the U.S., but he was driving the other car."

Dr. and Mrs. Duxbury and family and Miss Pakington are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McGill. Mrs. Duxbury's parents, at their home on Mayfair Drive.

Miss Pakington, a nurse, who for the past 21 months has been working in a research project at Harvard University and the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, is from Worcestershire, Eng. She is the daughter of the famous English author, the Hon. Humphrey A. Pakington, OBE. He wrote various well-known novels, including Four in Family, Aston Kings, The Washbournes of Overley, How the World Builds, Introduction to Architecture, English Villages and Hamlets, and Bid Time Return, an autobiography.

Miss Pakington will return to the east via Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and the Grand Canyon.

"I'm meeting my father when he comes from England to the east later this summer," explains Auriole. "Together we will tour the eastern states."

ACTUAL QUERIES

Does the Queen live in the Parliament Buildings? Is Vancouver Island a province of Canada? These questions are actually asked by tourists, says attractive university student Miss Libby Roper, Victoria, who for her second summer is waitress in the coffee shop aboard the CPR ferry on the Seattle-Victoria run.

"I get so bewildered," she laughs. "But after three months of being a walking tourist bureau, I've found answers to almost any question dealing with this part of the country."

Her job puts her in two places within 24 hours. "We spend the night in Seattle and four hours in Victoria in the afternoon."

"Between times, we work!"

Visitors from Montreal, spending the summer months in Victoria, are Mrs. Robert Owen Molson and her two-year-old son Glenn. With Mr. Molson, this charming pair are guests of Mrs. Molson's parents, Dr. Glenn Simpson and Mrs. Simpson of Sea View Road. Mrs. Molson, the former Miss Nina Simpson of this city, has for the past two years been living in Scotland where her husband attended the University of Edinburgh. Mr. and Mrs. Molson and Glenn will return to Montreal in the early fall where Mr. Molson will continue his studies in engineering at McGill University.

Equal Pay Legislation for Women Dealt With at BPW Convention

WINNIPEG (CP)—The provincial governments of New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Quebec can expect to be hounded until they adopt equal pay legislation for women. Reviewing her report as legislation chairman, Mrs. E. Winnifred Gerry, of Winnipeg, told delegates attending the 17th biennial meeting of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs considerable progress in the recognition of women and their place in society was made at the federal level during the past two years.

Later in an interview she commended the provincial and federal government for their assistance in improving the status of women but warned that the clubs in the three provinces which have not passed equal pay legislation "will not relax their efforts to achieve this goal".

CAUSE CONCERN

Mrs. Gerry said that women who decline jury duty are causing concern to her committee which pleads for equal rights. In her report, she complimented Ontario for its effective Jury Act as "the only act of its kind with teeth in it."

In an effort to boost its lagging membership, delegates accepted a proposal by Vice-President Una MacLean of Calgary that the charter fees be put into a revolving account for allocation for provincial requests. Plans for reorganization and revitalization of clubs were to be suggested by provincial presidents.

Miss Carolyn Hill Honored

Several parties have been held honoring bride-elect Miss Carolyn Hill, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Ennals takes place Saturday. Mrs. H. # Hazel June Married In James Bay Church

Wearing a scintillating new War Amputations Hall floor-length gown of nylon sheer, Hazel Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayland R. June, 334 Michigan Street, recently became the bride of James Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Jackson, 1240 Santa Rosa Avenue, in James Bay United Church. Rev. J. Romeril, assisted by Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated.

For the up-Island honeymoon, the new Mrs. Jackson chose a cream two-piece suit with pink accessories and pink roses.

Out-of-town guests included Cecil June of Magnolia, Mr. and Mrs. R. Strangway, Mrs. L. Nelson of Bon Accord, Alta., Mr. and Mrs. A. McKenzie of Alberni, and Mrs. R. Brown of Entwistle, Alta.

For Wedding

In the city for the recent marriage of Miss Marilyn Gale Smith and Mr. Howard P. Smith in Centennial United Church, were Mr. and Mrs. G. Ludvigson, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkin, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. Parry and Mr. and Mrs. T. Ellison, all of Courtenay; Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Plater, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Pecknold, Mr. and Mrs. G. St. Cyr, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. J. Olson of Lake Cowichan; Dr. A. Dale, Minstrel Island, and Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson of Vancouver.

Arthur Jackson ushered friends and relatives into the church and Peter Fletcher acted as groomsmen. A three-tier wedding cake centred the bridal table at the reception in the Oak Bay Ave.

DEAR ABBY

Age-Old Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I think it is time somebody started some kind of national organization to save our youth from the moral decay that will eventually destroy our nation. The calibre of young people today is so discouraging that it makes me sick to walk down the street and look at them.

First someone should start some kind of an organization to reform some of our adults. Their lack of honesty, integrity and sobriety is even more discouraging. It is their bad example that has caused our youth to laugh at the old-fashioned virtues.

DEAR ABBY: I am in a state of shock and am sick inside. My husband's boss sent him on a business trip last week. He has gone on many and I have always packed for him because he doesn't know how to pack. When he comes home, I unpack his suitcase. All his things are thrown in his case every which way. I never cared because it was just his soiled laundry.

On his last trip I unpacked for him and my heart stood still. Everything was packed perfectly. Socks matched up together. Pyjamas folded neatly. He never could have done it himself. There must be another woman in the picture. Now when he comes near me, I freeze up. I can't bring myself to ask him any questions because I guess I don't want to face the truth. Should I just leave him or what?

DEAR SICK: Most of the things we worry about never happened, or never will happen. For goodness' sake, ask him and get it over with. You could be off base by a country mile. Bellboys frequently pack for men who must check out in a hurry. Give your husband a chance to defend himself.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 27, but he acts like he has only one week to live. I've heard of people wanting to see the world but this guy's got it bad. In the year we have been married we've been half-way across the country. We get settled in an apartment and I meet some nice neighbors and—wham! He's ready to move again. His kind of work is easy to find and he says we might just as well see the country before we have children and get tied down.

I tell him I want to take root somewhere, but he's so busy thinking about where he wants to go next he doesn't even listen. How can I get him to stay put?

DEAR "GYPSY": Relax and enjoy it. As long as your husband is able to make a living wherever he is, let him get the wanderlust out of his system while you are able to go with him. Some women don't know when they're well off.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MY OWN PSYCHIATRIST": You are kidding only yourself. Even a PSYCHIATRIST isn't his own psychiatrist.

Of Personal Interest

Honored

Prior to her recent marriage to Mr. R. E. Sorenson, the former Miss Beverly Hall was honored at a shower in the Glanford Avenue home of Mrs. Stuart Rhodes. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Rhodes were Mrs. Eric Coles and Mrs. Ken Ash. Gifts were contained in a yellow and turquoise container. Guest of honor was presented with pink carnations in corsage. Her mother, Mrs. Frank Hall, received white carnations and Mrs. Olive Sorenson, mother of the groom, was presented with red carnations in corsage. Mrs. Dorothy Colgate of the New Neighbor Services presented Miss Hall with a basket of gifts from the retailers of Victoria. Guests included Mrs. Phil Lambrick, Mrs. Richard Cameron, Mrs. Jenny Bambrugh, Mrs. Ken Maycock, Mrs. Alan Wilson, Mrs. Bill Raybone, Mrs. Peter Ash, Mrs. W. Florence, Mrs. Norman Coles, Mrs. Bill Green, Mrs. Bryan Collis, Miss Caroline Florence and Miss Dorothy Rose.

Marilyn Gale Smith and Groom To Make Home on Minstrel Island

Minstrel Island, B.C., will be the future home of newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul Smith, whose marriage took place in Centennial United Church recently.

Bride, the former Marilyn Gale, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Smith of Sidney, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith of Courtenay. Rev. S. Parsons officiated at the evening ceremony.

Tall baskets of gladioli and Esther Reid daisies decorated the church.

Bride entered the church, on the arm of L. G. Thomas, Sidney. Her floor-length gown of Hong Kong silk brocade featured a V neckline, long sleeves and princess-line waistline extending into a skirt with train. Her veil was in fingertip length and she carried a rescent bouquet of gardenias and ivy. Mimosa yellow and mint green were respective tones of gowns worn by Miss Evans Smith, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Heath and Mrs. David Christian. All carried bouquets of salmon pink and yellow gladioli, respectively. Miss Wendy Robertson, flower girl, wore a mimosa yellow frock and carried a basket of mixed summer flowers.

Barry Smith, groom's brother, was best man, and ushers were Raymond Parry and Ted Ellison, all of Courtenay.

Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" was played by organist Mrs. M. Wilmhurst, during signing of the register. E. R. Hall proposed the toast to the bride at reception in C and C Hall. Mother of the bride received guests, wearing a heavy crepe dress with white accessories and pink carnation corsage. A blue taffeta and velvet gown was worn by the groom's mother. Her accessories were in pink, as was her corsage of carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Calgary, the bride donned an olive-green suit and white accessories. Her corsage was a gardenia.

The blades of paring knives often work loose from the handles. Push a little plastic wood well into the crevice of the handle and replace the blade of the knife. Let it dry for a few hours and the knife will be as strong as new.

Armed Forces Cutback Proposed by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The government may try to reduce defence spending further by manpower cuts in the armed forces and civilian staff of the defence department.

Reliable sources said Tuesday the government, possibly over the objections of Defence Minister Pearson, has ordered the defence department to survey the effects of manpower cuts ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

There now are about 168,500 employees of the defence department—119,000 servicemen and 49,500 civilians—who are paid a total of some $660,000,000 annually.

A 5 per cent manpower cut in the department would lop about 8,500 from the payroll. Any cut would likely fall more heavily on administrative staffs than on combat forces.

PLANNERS SHOCKED

The government order to conduct the survey fell like a bomb among defence planners. They have held that the armed forces need more instead of fewer men to carry out the services assigned jobs.

For instance, officers have said the army has only about one-quarter of the soldiers it needs to carry out its civil defence role properly.

The RCAF soon will have to find about 1,500 more personnel to man seven new heavy radar stations.

The navy has already had

Yukon Study On Education Gets B.C. Man

Franklin P. Levirs, M.A. (Ed), assistant superintendent of education for B.C., has been appointed to serve on the Yukon Committee on Education, it was announced Tuesday by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Mr. Levirs resides at 311 Windermere Place, Victoria.

"He was specifically requested to serve on this federal committee because of his wide experience in administrative and curricular affairs," Mr. Peterson said.

"This is particularly desirable since the Yukon Territory uses the curriculum for B.C., and high school graduates from the Yukon write departmental examinations set by this province."

SAME NEEDS

"The educational needs of the Yukon are very similar to those of northern British Columbia."

After studies in Edmonton, the Yukon committee will visit Watson Lake, Carcross, Whitehorse, the Alaska Highway schools and two Indian residential schools in the Yukon Territories.

The final report will be presented to Commissioner F. H. Collins, Whitehorse, for submission to the territorial council.

Mr. Levirs expects to return to his post as B.C. assistant superintendent of education late in August.

GUESTS FLEE VANCOUVER HOTEL FIRE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The seven-storey, downtown Lotus Hotel was evacuated today when fire heavily damaged a restaurant in the basement.

One elderly, unidentified man collapsed after he had been carried down a fire escape and was taken to hospital.

Three other persons overcome by smoke, were given oxygen.

The restaurant's main dining room, recently enlarged, was believed destroyed in the 30-minute fire. There was minor smoke damage to the rest of the building.

HOW MANY KNOW THERE'S A SECOND VERSE?

'O Canada' Lessons for Kiwanians

Former lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, Edward Mallek, bluntly asked fellow members Tuesday: "How many of you know there is a second verse to 'O Canada'?"

Members looked sheepishly around as a mere half-dozen hands were raised.

Mr. Mallek suggested they get out song sheets sometimes—it helped to foster fellowship, and prevented embarrassment when it came to singing "O Canada".

He has just returned from the Kiwanis International convention at Miami Beach, where he represented the Victoria Kiwanis.

He commented that if Victoria wanted to attract conventions it would have to offer a convention hall, capable of holding many thousands of people, and more accommodation.

Earlier Bruce Leyden, managing director of Layward's Funeral Co., was welcomed as a new member and tribute was paid to the passing of an old one—Darrell Spence.

DAVIS BRISTLES

U.S. Nazis Hit at Sammy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Uniformed American Nazi party
"storm troopers" Tuesday night picketed a nightclub appearance of Negro singer Sammy Davis, Jr., to protest his planned marriage to a white actress.

Wearing swastika arm bands, about 15 self-styled Nazis marched with posters in front of the Lotus Night Club for more than an hour. One demonstrator led a small dog which wore a placard reading:
"I'm black, too, Sammy, but I'm not a Jew."

Nazi party leader George Lincoln Rockwell and his young followers carried signs

SAMMY DAVIS, JR.
... none of their business with such statements as "What's the matter, Sammy, can't you get a colored girl?"

Davis, a convert to the Jewish faith, bristled at the references to his planned fall marriage to blonde Swedish actress May Britt. He said he was "just plain mad."

"It certainly doesn't seem to be any of their business," he told a reporter in his dressing room.

almost broke into tears when his introduction at the Democratic national convention in Los Angeles was met with a mixture of cheers and jeers.

Beecham Suffers
Relapse at London

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir
Thomas Beecham, 81, has suffered a relapse following a recent illness and will be unable to conduct at the Glynde-bourne Opera House later this month as scheduled, the Glynde-bourne announced Tuesday night. Lady Beecham had described as "highly exaggerated" reports Sir Thomas was seriously ill.

Freak Blaze Adds
To Firemen's Woes

A freak blaze in a carport, rented by a city fireman, two false alarms and three grass fires kept Greater Victoria fire departments under pressure in the after-work rush between 4:30 and 6 p.m. Tuesday.

The carport and one grass fire and both false alarms were in Victoria, with the other grass fires in Langford and Saanich areas.

Firemen were still working at a grass and brush blaze in vacant land near B.C. Protestant Orphanage, between Hillside, Cedar Hill, Acton and Mount Stephen, when a call was received to go to 1171
Kings, home of fireman George White, where a motorcycle belonging to his son Michael had burst into flame.

BACKFIRED
The machine backfired when started and when the boy went to get water for a small fire, the gasoline tank exploded, setting fire to the structure and a small car owned by Mr.
and Mrs. John Wren, 1173 Kings, the adjoining residence with which the carport was shared.

Firemen said the roof may have to be replaced and the motorbike and car were heavily damaged.

A second car, parked nearby, was saved when it was moved away from the blaze.

First truck to tackle the Cedar Hill fire called for help when flames burned toward houses, covering finally an estimated two acres.

Other fires were at the home of Mrs. G. S. Lohmann, 838 Hyacinth, which spread from an incinerator, and at 1081 Dunford.

Vagrant Gets Explanation
—And 30 Days

Harry Breman, no fixed address, said he could not understand the meaning of vagrancy when he was charged with the offence in Saanich police court Tuesday.

Found wandering with only 20 cents in his pocket, and unable to account for himself, Breman argued he was in the city to find work and couldn't find any unless he looked around.

Magistrate William Ostler accepted a plea of not guilty, held a trial and sentenced the man to 30 days in jail—his third conviction for a similar offence.

Accused was picked up at 2:15 a.m. Monday at Douglas and Cloverdale, unkempt, needing a shave and haircut, owning only the torn trousers he wore, a shirt and ragged sweater and carrying a bag with an extra pair of pants.

'LOOKING AROUND'
He told Const. Frank Briers he was "looking around" and probably would go into a cafe for a cup of coffee if he found one that was open.

He had come from the mainland the previous afternoon, he said.

Magistrate William Ostler agreed that a single act did not constitute vagrancy, but convicted on the basis of Breman's life during the past six months.

WORKED TWO WEEKS
During that time, although he apparently was not a well-fare case, had been gainfully employed only two weeks, managing the rest of the time to fend for himself by living in a North Burnaby shack on Burnard Inlet and doing "a bit of fishing." Since then he had been sleeping on roadsides.
"It is not a crime to be poor and it is not a crime to be without work, at least not in this country," Mr. Ostler said, "but it is a crime to conduct yourself in this manner. You may not wander about with impunity."

'THE GREATEST SHOW
ON NICHOLSON STREET'

Six Lakehill youngsters and assorted helpers staged a neighborhood "circus" Tuesday for charity.
When it was over the Cerebral Palsy Association was $4.13 richer.

The youngsters Ron and Diane Scott, Nicky Rogers, Allan Matheson, Randy Malone and Carolyn Hurst raffled toy eggs, offered an "animal" show with four live rabbits, a tiger (stuffed), French poodle (stuffed) and the "smallest black panther in captivity"—an all-black cat. They sold popcorn, cookies and homemade soft drinks and even had a fortune-teller.

A fun house, described as "scary" completed the three-hour affair held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Scott, 1015 Nicholson.

TORONTO FIRM PUTS UP CASH

'Gone With the Wind'
For Broadway Musical

TORONTO (CP)—Creative Telefilm and Artists Ltd. of Toronto has filed notice with the Toronto Stock Exchange notifying it of an agreement to back the cost of a Broadway musical version of "Gone With the Wind."

The company said that under an agreement with David O. Selznick of Hollywood, producer of the Oscar-winning movie version of the book by Margaret Mitchell, arrangements have been completed for production in the United States and elsewhere of the musical play.

Under the terms of the agreement Creative Telefilm is to advance the cost of production and exploitation of the musical. The loan to Mr.
Selznick is not to exceed $1,250,000. A total of $500,000 has already been advanced to Mr. Selznick.

The agreement also states that after the opening of the play in New York City, all cash in excess of $200,000, after payment of debts and taxes, is to be paid back monthly to the Toronto firm until it is paid off.

Creative Telefilm is also entitled to receive 40 per cent of the net profits of the play.

Shortage of Nickels,
Nobody Knows Why OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has a shortage of nickels but nobody knows why. One reason could be a decline in United States nickels as a result of the decision of Canadian banks to charge exchange on American coins and another the increased use of various types of vending machines and parking meters.

TV Crackdown Asked VANCOUVER (CP)—Three organizations demanded Tuesday that the city council crack down on incompetent and dishonest television and radio repairmen but aldermen voted 4 to 3 to stay out of the picture, saying it was a provincial government responsibility.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jerry Clark, age 13, of Shreveport, La., for his question:

Why Are There No Plant Fossils?

Who says there are no plant fossils? Coal, petroleum, amber-like frozen honey, the so-called lead in a pencil, the scouring powder we use to clean the bathtub—all these, and many more are fossil materials which came from ancient plants. Once in a while we find the imprint of a fern frond in a stone or lump of coal. In desert regions, whole tree trunks have been turned to stone. These petrified forests are also the fossil remains of ancient plants.

There have always been many more plants than animals on the earth. Yet few plants are as durable as, say, the bones of a dinosaur. Most vegetation is fragile and tends to decay rapidly. When it does not decay, it tends to pack down in crumpled layers. When conditions are right, this vegetation goes through chemical changes and becomes something else. This happened to the massive beds of vegetation which finally became our fossils: Coal, petroleum, amber-like frozen honey, the so-called lead in a pencil, the scouring powder we use to clean the bathtub—all these, and many more are fossil materials which came from ancient plants. Once in a while we find the imprint of a fern frond in a stone or lump of coal. In desert regions, whole tree trunks have been turned to stone. These petrified forests are also the fossil remains of ancient plants.

Source of Cleaning Powders

Much of our cleansing powder is made from diatomaceous earth—which is the fossil remains of ancient diatoms. These tiny plants, which encase themselves in shells like microscopic jewel boxes, teemed in the ancient seas, just as they do today. Their jewel-like shells, made of silica which is the same mineral from which an opal is made, sifted through the water and made great piles on the sea floors. When this debris becomes dry land, it is diatomaceous earth. The little diatoms cases with their buttons and spikes are used to scour our sinks and bathtubs.

Relieve Itching, Soreness and Pain

without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories

Here is a nice, clean, easy way to shrink or reduce swollen, painful piles without the inconvenience of ointment, pile pipes or suppositories.

The secret is in taking just one small Hem-Roid Tablet, with water, two or three times a day. By effective INTERNAL action this small but gently persistent medicine eases constipation, helps break up and smoothly pass old hardened intestinal waste, relieves itching, soreness and pain, helps shrink piles and permits them to heal. Hem-Roid is no easy to use, so pleasant and satisfying

CANADA'S POPULATION EDGES TO 18 MILLION

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's population reached an estimated 17,814,000 by June 1, up 372,000 from a year earlier, the bureau of statistics said today.

At the present rate of growth, the bureau said, the figure should reach 18,000,000 by December.

All provinces shared in the 12-month increase. Largest proportionate gains were recorded by Alberta, Ontario, and British Columbia.

June 1 population by province, with the previous year's figures in parentheses, was: Newfoundland, 459,000 (449,000); Prince Edward Island, 163,000 (162,000); Nova Scotia, 723,000 (716,000); New Brunswick, 600,000 (590,000); Quebec, 5,106,000 (4,999,000); Ontario, 6,089,000 (5,932,000); Manitoba, 899,000 (885,000); Saskatchewan, 910,000 (902,000); Alberta, 1,283,000 (1,243,000); British Columbia, 1,606,000 (1,570,000); Yukon, 14,000 (13,000); and Northwest Territories, 22,000 (21,000).

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

LOTSA ANGLES, Calif. — Things got so grave and gruesome around Democratic Convention headquarters — with all the charges, denials, and denials of denials — that I quickly said I would have to import some laughs from Las Vegas.

First, I asked Red Skelton, who's at the Sands Hotel, and he said he heard it was so hot here in one of the smog-filled caucus rooms that the air-conditioning broke down and a 32nd degree Mason went up four degrees.

An Illinois delegate, Red claimed, found he couldn't get a room in Los Angeles so he got one in Las Vegas. It was out of the way, but he liked the way the girls are dressed in Vegas.

On hearing that Joe Kennedy is worth $300,000,000, Hope reportedly asked for a recount.

"A recount of his money?" somebody asked. "No, a recount of his politics," said Bob. "I think he must really be a Republican."

Mort Sahl is doing a radio commentary over local station KHJ, which he says stands for "Kennedy Hates Johnson." Some of the boys are calling this "The City of Brotherly Shove."

Of course the prices in Los Angeles are up due to the convention influx and Red Skelton said it reminded him of his trip to Miami Beach during the sucker season. (Some places have a deer season, some have a trout season, Miami Beach has a sucker season.)

THAT'S IT

"I picked up a pen to register at the hotel desk," Red said, "and I asked the clerk, 'What can I get for about $30 a day?' The clerk said, 'You're holding it, buddy.'"

Willbur Clark, operator of the Las Vegas Desert Inn, is here at the convention as an alternate. A gambler by profession, he has bet several bundles on Senator Kennedy.

Dave Appollon, the ex-vaudeville headliner, is now in the Desert Inn Lounge. He told me a story which impressed upon me the frailty of some of the "loyalties" we hear about at convention time.

Dave's always been known as a Russian. One day a stranger said, "Mr. Appollon, where are you from in Russia?"

"Kiev," said Dave.

"You probably knew my uncle, Sergei Something-otherwise," the stranger said.

"Knew him intimately," replied Dave. "Wonderful man. You're his nephew. Well, well. Honor to know you."

"Mr. Appollon, could you lend me $50?" the man said.

"Listen, Mister," replied Dave quickly. "I'm a damned dirty liar. I'm really from Hungary."

Summer Fish Stories

Each year more and more Victorians become addicted to the sport called fishing—many of them jump out of bed cheerfully at 4 a.m., don a heavy sweater, and rush for the boats... less hardy fishermen (and women) prefer to do their fishing at a more reasonable hour... but whichever type you are you'll find more fishing equipment and new fishing ideas at friendly EATON'S.

Rhys Davis Herring Teasers

a. Herring Teaser for slow to normal trolling uses packaged herring.
b. Super Strip Teaser—a new teaser for normal to fast trolling uses specially packaged herring strip.
Also available, the new Tiny Teaser for normal to fast trolling.

Weed Nick

How many times have you reeled in a really "big one" to find that it was just a line full of weed? The new Weed Nick keeps your trolling line free of weeds, is easily attached with a slide-line... when you use a Weed Nick you'll know you have got a fish... not a line of weeds.

Insulated Bait Box

One-piece moulded polystyrene plastic, so light that it will float. Keeps bait herring and minnows fresh and crisp all day, even in the blazing sun. Frozen bait will stay frozen for 12 hours or more. You'll want an extra one to keep picnic supplies fresh and cool in the boat. Aqua or yellow.

Each 2.00

KNIFE-ARMED NEGROES GUNNED DOWN IN YARD

MONROE, La. (UPI) — A 40-year-old white man shot down five Negro employees in his front yard today when they came after him with knives. Three of the Negroes were killed instantly.

Sheriff Bailey Grant said Robert Fuller, 40, got a 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun, opened his front door and began shooting when he saw the Negroes armed with knives.

VOTING STARTS TONIGHT

Humphrey Backs Adlai; Kennedy Still Favored

HUMPHREY
... splits state

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota gave the stop-Kennedy movement a psychological boost today by supporting Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination.

But Sen. John F. Kennedy remained the top-heavy favorite in tonight's balloting despite the loss of a few votes in frantic last-minute manoeuvres at the party's national convention.

Humphrey's action split the Minnesota Democratic leadership. At the same time the senator announced his support of Stevenson, it was learned that Minnesota Gov. Orville L. Freeman will put Kennedy in nomination this evening.

HOOR NEARS

The Minnesota division reflected the tension which gripped the previously apathetic delegates as the hour approached for the presidential roll call.

It will not by itself, however, change the outcome—the convention was headed toward a Kennedy victory, or the biggest political upset in recent history.

Humphrey had long since released the Minnesota delegation from support of him. In announcing his support of Stevenson, twice defeated by Dwight Eisenhower, Humphrey said, "I have asked all my friends to vote their own consciences for the good of our nation."

Indications were Minnesota delegates would go ahead and cast their 31 votes for Humphrey on the first ballot and then go their several ways on the second.

BLITZ BLUNTED?

Despite Kennedy's long delegate lead, his foes insisted his bandwagon was wrecked. Sen. Stuart Symington's campaign manager, Rep. Charles Brown of Missouri, asserted that the "Boston Blitz" has been blunted.

Brown said "it was blunted by the galleries" Tuesday night. He referred to the uproarious demonstration for Stevenson. He said he had heard reports of switches by Kennedy-pledged delegates to Stevenson and Symington.

The 4,000 delegates and alternates were called into session at the saucer-shaped Los Angeles sports arena at 3 p.m. to begin the noisy ritual of nominating speeches and "spontaneous" demonstrations.

The name of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas will be the first put in nomination today because Alabama, first state on the roll call, has agreed to yield to Texas for that purpose.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, permanent chairman of the convention, expected the actual balloting to get underway by 6 or 7 p.m.

Name Fines Successor

REGINA (CP) — Education Minister Woodrow Lloyd of Saskatchewan will replace retiring provincial treasurer Clarence Fines in the Saskatchewan cabinet, Premier T. C. Douglas said today.

Labor Renews Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — Opposition MPs today renewed their parliamentary attack over spy flights and American air bases in Britain.

GREEKS, ITALIANS PRAY, WORLD-END THURSDAY?

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters) — Inhabitants of the northern village of Lefkara are in continuous prayer as a result of newspaper stories from abroad that the world probably will end Thursday.

The villagers are forgiving each other's sins and some have made their wills.

In Italy, a group of 100 persons are camped some 7,000 feet high on the slopes of Mont Blanc awaiting the end of the world Thursday—by nuclear war and earthquake.

PLANE INCIDENT

Soviet Asks UN Session

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today asked for a meeting of the United Nations Security Council to consider the situation resulting from the shooting down of the American RB-47 aircraft over the Barents Sea July 1.

GREAT SLAVE

Probers Split Over Rail Route

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man Royal Commission investigating routes for a railway to Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories has been unable to agree on a finding, it was announced today.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker tabled in the Commons copies of the report of the commission headed by Mr. Justice M. E. Manning of Edmonton. One commissioner favored an eastern route, the other favored a western route. The chairman said the case for the eastern route was weaker than for the western.

Northern terminal of the railway would be on the south shore of the Great Slave Lake to tap the lead zinc resources of Pine Point.

The proposed eastern route would run 418 miles from McMurray waterways in north-eastern Alberta, following the Athabasca and Peace Rivers to Fort Smith and then travelling northwest to Pine Point. The proposed western route, 437 miles long, would run from Grimshaw roughly paralleling the Mackenzie highway to Alexander Falls, south of Hay River, and then north-easterly to Pine Point.

Chairman Manning said "a railway from Grimshaw would give service to communities already established, and would be easier and less costly to build."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Dear Father, when I am tempted to judge another, give me an understanding heart and an open mind. Help me realize that I may not know what prompted his course and that, faced with similar circumstances, I might have done or said the same thing. Let me be careful never to judge another by the yardsticks I make; in Jesus' name. Amen.

VANCOUVER 'LOVELY LANDING PORT'

Victoria Top Target For Enemy Missiles

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's civil defence head says Victoria would be a more logical target for enemy missiles than Vancouver.

Group Capt. Alex Lewis said the naval base at Esquimalt, which would become a base for United States missile-launching submarines, would be a top strategic target in a nuclear war.

"Vancouver would be a lovely port to be saved for an enemy's own landing uses," he said in reply to criticism by a Vancouver alderman that fallout shelters are a hoax and a waste of money.

But the city would be in danger from fallout from nuclear attacks on Seattle and Victoria. For that reason fallout shelters would save lives.

Ald. Frank Frederickson said the shelters, recommended by the federal government, would be useless in the event of nuclear attack.

Guess th' Belgians just couldn't resist th' lure o' th' jungle.

Both th' National and American leagues seem t' be in better shape than th' International League.

Nice o' Vancouver t' be so unselfish about them bombs.

NO FALL SESSION

Prime Minister Diefenbaker today in the Commons said that reports the government was considering a fall session "have no foundation." Reports circulating in Ottawa said the present session would end July 23 and that a fall session would be called.

DIES

Former commissioner of the old British Columbia Provincial Police force, Thomas W. A. Parsons, 77, died suddenly early today at his home. See story on page 17.

ALL-STAR GAME

Four Homers Give Nats Second Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League overpowered the American League with four home runs today to complete a sweep of the two all-star baseball games this season with a 6-0 victory before 38,362 at the Yankee Stadium.

Circuit blows by Eddie Mathews, Willie Mays, Stan Musial and Ken Boyer provided all six runs for the Nationals.

Musial's home run was his sixth in all-star competition. National Leaguers won the first of the two games at Kansas City Monday, 5-3. Today's win cut the American League's series lead to 16-13.

Meanwhile, American Leaguers were helpless against the pitching of Law, Podres, Williams, Jack and McDaniel.

Special Session Of UN Tonight

(Times News Services)

Belgian paratroopers battled Congolese army forces and seized control of the city of Leopoldville and the nearby Midili Airport today in a major offensive designed to safeguard whites in the chaotic new republic of the Congo.

Simultaneously, the Congolese government called for troops from the African Negro republic of Ghana to intervene to help restore order.

The Belgian military drive came as the United States and the United Nations pursued a policy of "quiet diplomacy" to end the strife, which one high African official called a "state of war" between Belgium and the Congo.

In New York, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld summoned the UN Security Council into extraordinary session tonight to discuss the rapidly deteriorating situation.

Hammarskjöld took the initiative after circulating to UN members a request for UN help to end the disorders received from Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu.

ACT OF AGGRESSION

They had termed Belgium's military operations against their country an "act of aggression" and blamed "colonialist provocations" for most of the troubles there.

The Congo asked the United States for 3,000 American troops to help restore order. This request was passed along to the UN and probably will be considered along with the Lumumba-Kasavubu bid for UN help.

The U.S. thus far has adopted a cautious wait-and-see attitude, indicating it is opposed to sending a large military force to the Congo.

But the White House has not disclosed whether the United States would go along with a request from the UN to include American troops in any international force dispatched to the strife-ridden African nation.

Belgium has decided that it will support the Congolese government's bid for UN military and technical aid to restore order.

IGNORED ORDER

But it flatly ignored a Congo government ultimatum that Belgian troops return to their bases there immediately or face battle with the Congolese army.

Instead, the Belgians launched a co-ordinated military attack.

Landing in Belgian Air Force planes, the green-bellied paratroopers opened fire at Congolese troops molesting whites.

One Congolese soldier was killed and three Belgians, including two women refugees, were wounded. A number of Congolese were taken prisoner.

Belgian families on balconies cheered wildly as the paratroopers marched into the city from the airport, 20 miles away.

'Mission Of Mercy'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The navy announced Tuesday the aircraft carrier Wasp is steaming toward the South Atlantic "and if the situation requires, she will continue on toward Africa to assist in evacuation of United States nationals from the Congo." A navy spokesman emphasized that "this was purely a mission of mercy."

'Oppression'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia accused the West of "colonial oppression" in the Congo today and asked the United Nations to take immediate action to end this "armed aggression." Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the text of a statement on the matter to U.S. Charge D'Affaires Edward Freers and the Belgian ambassador.

Canadians Ready

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian officers on the United Nations Truce Supervisory Commission in Palestine may be used to help restore order in the strife-torn Congo Republic, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker indicated today.

He told the Commons use of commission officers as a preliminary step was one of the proposals under study by UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

King Sees Refugees

BRUSSELS (AP) — King Baudoin of Belgium made an unexpected visit to Zaventem airport Tuesday, talking with refugees arriving from the Congo and scribbling hasty notes about their cases.

The young monarch, who arrived unheralded, won applause from the crowd of refugees and their relatives.

Food Shortage

BRUSSELS (AP) — Matadi, main Congolese port on the Atlantic has food for only one more day, the Belgian radio reported this morning. The radio said the Congolese government has asked the United States for the immediate supply of 100,000 tons of flour.

South Africa Aid

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd announced Tuesday his government will provide financial aid to white refugees from the Congo who want to settle in South Africa.

JOHNSON GAMBLER

Last-Ditch Try By the Old Pros

By MAX FREEDMAN
(Special to the Times)

LOS ANGELES — Tuesday was the last day on which Mr. Adlai Stevenson and Senator Lyndon Johnson had a chance at the Democratic convention to stop Senator John Kennedy from winning the presidential nomination.

They made some progress, enough to halt the rush to the Kennedy banner, but not enough to place the nomination in serious doubt.

Stevenson and Johnson

made their bids in characteristic fashion. Senator Johnson made almost a gambler's throw of desperation, while Mr. Stevenson cast himself once more in the role of the statesman consenting to become a reluctant candidate.

In a breach with tradition, Mr. Stevenson appeared on the floor of the convention soon after his chief supporter, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, had taken a seat of honor. He was able to come to the convention for two reasons: He has never been a declared candidate and he is a member of the Illinois delegation. His appearance touched off the loudest and longest demonstration of the whole convention. The ovation lasted for 17 minutes; but there was more cheering among visitors in the gallery than among delegates on the floor.

Thus far Stevenson has been totally unresponsive to over-

Sharp Gains In Purchases From Britain

OTTAWA (CP) — Sharp gains in Canadian purchases from the United Kingdom and other Commonwealth countries was a feature of Canada's import trade in the first quarter of this year.

While total imports rose 8.9 per cent to $1,326,200,000 from the first quarter of 1959, imports from the United Kingdom increased 32 per cent and imports from other Commonwealth countries gained 28 per cent, the bureau of statistics has reported.

The bureau's report, detailing import totals issued some time ago, said imports of United States goods increased to $940,400,000 in the January-March period, up 8 per cent from $870,800,000 in the first quarter of 1959.

Britain's share of the Canadian market, which has been gradually expanding in recent years, rose to 10.7 per cent in the period from 8.8 per cent a year earlier. The share of Canadian imports coming from the U.S. declined fractionally to 70.9 per cent.

Imports from the U.K. advanced to $142,200,000 in the three-month period, and from other Commonwealth countries to $48,000,000.

Figures for March showed a 9.5-per-cent gain in total imports to $473,900,000 from $432,700,000 in March, 1959.

First-quarter imports were above last year's levels for all 12 leading commodities except crude petroleum.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Retreat Continues On N.Y. Exchange

Wall Street continued its retreat in quiet trading today as caution spread in the face of international domestic uncertainties. A fractional range prevailed for most issues.

TODAY'S GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most trade was concentrated in flax at the close today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

The flax market was irregular with hesitant selling from United States interests and other sources.

Oats and barley prices moved narrowly. The rye market showed an erratic trend.

AT NEW YORK Hudson Bay Mining and Distillers Seagrams each gained 1/4 on the Canadian list. International Nickel was up 1/4. Aluminum Ltd. eased 1/4.

American Stock Exchange prices moved irregularly in quiet dealings. Canadian Shawinigan was off 1/4. Canadian mines and oils were mixed.

AT LONDON, industrials were steady but gilt-edged securities were dull as unsettled conditions persisted to day on the stock market.

Dollar stocks were mainly lower. Golds were firm while coppers and tins eased. Some oils rallied and rubbers were better.

AT VANCOUVER, trading was light with slight change in prices during the morning. Beaver Lodge traded 2,500 at 26. Caribou sold 2,500 at 33. Silbak moved 10,700 at 36. Silver Standard traded 4,000 at 21.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat was the only firm futures commodity on the board of trade today but soybeans had recovered most of their steep setbacks in earlier dealings.

Wheat Stocks Up
WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian wheat stocks in store and in transit increased to 418,800,000 bushels for the week ended July 6, the board of grain commissioners has reported.

This total is just below the total for July 3, 1959, the end of the 1958-59 crop year.

August Take-Off Set On Hydrofoil Service

Tests Next Week For Speedy Craft

High-speed hydrofoil service linking Victoria and Bellingham definitely will start early in August.

This assurance was given today by Mayor John E. Westford of Bellingham, an active supporter of the project.

Mayor Westford told the Times today the hydrofoil itself arrived at Portland, Ore., this week. It is being uncrated and reassembled, and will likely go on short test runs next week.

The diesel-powered craft is being leased by Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co. Ltd., of Bellingham from the H. M. Heldemann Co. of New York, which had been operating the hydrofoil in the Puerto Rico area.

Victoria "in the first few days of August" for demonstration rides for press and public, and the scheduled service would start shortly after.

He has been interested in the hydrofoil idea since he met the president of the Heldemann company in Europe a year ago. Head of the development company in Bellingham is D. Murray Mason, west coast vice-president.

SEATTLE TOO

Mr. Mason states that, if the trial service is successful, application will be made to extend it to Seattle. He said at least four hydrofoils will be ordered from U.S. shipyards.

As proof of the practicality of hydrofoils, Mayor Westford pointed out that two are being built in Norway, to operate a coastal service between Bergen and Stavanger, a distance of about 100 miles.

TWO HOURS

A direct Victoria-Seattle route by water would be 85 miles, and Mr. Mason estimates the hydrofoil could do it in two hours.

Victoria terminus of the service will be at Harbor Marine, at the Esquimalt end of the Johnson Street Bridge. Harbor Marine is a newly-formed Canadian company which operates a yacht brokerage and small-craft service and also represents Hydrofoil Development and Operating Co. in Canada.

Former Sidney Roofing Co. dock (circle) at southwest end of Johnson St. bridge, now owned by Harbor Marine, yacht brokers, will be Victoria terminus for new high-speed hydrofoil service slated to start early in August. Possible terminus for yet another

MONTE ROBERTS

I am not given to boasting about my unique abilities. But yesterday I accomplished something so out-of-the-ordinary, I feel I must record it for posterity.

I hit myself on the head and knocked myself down, skinning an elbow and causing an economy-size headache.

If you think this was easy to do, you are quite wrong. It took extreme skill, co-ordination, and a mind so far absent it's a wonder it has come home yet.

In case you want to try it some time, here is how I accomplished it:

I was leaving the garage, and reached up to pull down the overhead door, which is balanced on counter-weights.

I then stood there, thinking about something else, while the garage door descended inexorably and conked me on the noggin, causing the lights to go out and my athletic body to crumple to the floor.

You will please forgive me for this bit of boasting.

I cannot remember for sure what I was thinking about during the above episode.

But it may have been the collection of unhappy animals and avaricious people which have been infesting Victoria West Park for the past couple of days.

I hope and trust this will be the last time the authorities of this fair city permit a "circus" to invade the neighborhood.

Not only for the sake of the poor benighted beasts pacing behind the bars of their cages.

But for the sake of us country cousins who seem to be so willing to be "taken" by the city slickers.

On the other hand, I may have been thinking about the difficulty of measuring the tourist traffic in these parts.

Just the other day, I read some encouraging figures about the number of tourists arriving here via the government ferries from the mainland to Sidney.

Also just the other day, some tourists coming down Douglas Street to the roundup asked me the way to Wharf Street.

"You catching the ferry?" I asked.

"Yup," they said. "Just arrived at Sidney, now we're heading for Port Angeles."

On the OTHER hand, I probably wasn't thinking.

A VICTORIA ARMY officer, Lieutenant-Colonel R. A. Smillie will be appointed commanding officer of First Field Ambulance Northwest Europe, headquarters at Ottawa announced today. For the past two years, he has been area medical officer at Vancouver headquarters British Columbia area.

Alaska Governor To Get Salute

Governor William Egan of Alaska will receive a 19-gun salute when he arrives in Victoria next Monday evening for a conference with B.C. cabinet ministers, Premier Bennett announced today.

The premier said the two-day conference will deal with all mutual opportunities for developing the north, including industrial development, transportation and tourist business.

SKINDIVER TORPEDOED BY URCHIN

Two spikes from a small sea urchin have laid up a skindiver in St. Joseph's Hospital since Sunday.

Raymond Lindstrom, a member of Victoria Bohemians skindiving club, was competing in the skindiving competitions off Ogden Point breakwater when another competitor accidentally dived on top of him, forcing his hand on to a sea urchin. The spikes pierced the palm of his hand.

He went to hospital for treatment but was detained. A spokesman for the hospital said today Lindstrom was in good condition.

City Parks Report Shows Busy June

City parks are humming with activity this year, monthly report by parks administrator W. H. Warren indicated today.

A record kept of civic greenhouse production this year shows 2,834 flats and 700 pots were handled — which put more than 165,000 plants on view in parks and flower baskets.

June also was the busiest month ever recorded in use of city sports fields.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Richard George Ballendine, 431 Government, $15 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Joe Quon Tay, 807 Kings, $20 for following another vehicle too closely.

Donald John Matheson, HMCS Naden, $10 for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Edward Mifchuk, 89 Wellington, $20 for failing to stop at an occupied crosswalk.

Kenneth J. Ozero, 348 Gorge, $10 for driving through a red light.

60% Capacity For New B.C. Ferries

The new B.C. government ferries Tsawwassen and Sidney have averaged 60 per cent capacity loads since the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen service started June 15.

This information came today from Highways Minister Gagliardi interviewed in Vancouver.

He made the comment while revealing he has asked president George Paulin of Black Ball Ferries Ltd. to build another ferry for the Horseshoe Bay-Nanaimo run.

He said a new ferry would permit one of the present vessels to be used to augment service on the Black Ball Howe Sound-Jervis Inlet run. Black Ball officials gave the request a cool reception.

PREMIER HAPPY

Meanwhile in Victoria Premier Bennett said at a press conference traffic on the government ferries between Swartz Bay and the mainland "exceeded all expectations."

"I have seen no report on the actual amount of traffic as yet," he said, "and did not expect to since the ferries have been operating less than a month."

"There will, of course, be a report in due time."

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Margaree returns 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Skene returns 11 a.m. Friday.

Tom Parsons Knew B.C.

Thomas W. A. Parsons, for many years head of the B.C. Provincial Police force in the post of commissioner, died here early today.

His death came as a shock to many who had seen him, apparently in splendid health, during the past two days.

Mrs. Parsons found her husband dead in bed at their home at 977 Foul Bay Road early this morning, presumably from a heart attack. He was 77 years old but had never suffered any major illness.

He had returned just recently from a visit to his son, Richard, in New York.

'STUNNED'

"I was absolutely stunned when I heard he had gone," said Cecil Clark, who served under Commissioner Parsons as inspector and was later deputy commissioner.

"I met him in the B.C. Archives only last Monday and told him how fit he was looking. I never knew a man who carried his age better."

Commissioner Parsons retired from the Provincial Police in November, 1947. He had served the force for 35 years under eight attorneys-general.

HEADED SCOUTS

A month later Commissioner Parsons was appointed provincial commissioner of the Boy Scouts' Association of British Columbia which he served with distinction in a volunteer capacity.

He also served for a time as administrator of the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Commissioner Parsons' long career with the provincial police took him all over the province, and he was known to hundreds of Indians as "Tom Parsons." Cowboys and ranchers alike were his friends and he knew people in all walks of life.

He joined the provincial police in 1912 and was first stationed at Kitselas. The following year he was transferred to Terrace, and in 1914 was made Chief Constable in the Peace River District with headquarters at Fort St. John.

In 1917 he was transferred to Kamloops and in 1918 appointed deputy inspector. Later he saw service with the police at Prince George and Prince Rupert.

HERE IN 1924

In 1924 he was moved to Victoria and placed in charge of "A" division comprising Vancouver Island.

Three years after Commissioner Parsons' retirement, the

B.C. Provincial Police was absorbed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Born at Old Charlton, England, he served with the 1st City of London Artillery from 1899 to 1900 and from 1900 to 1904 with the 1st Bedfordshire Regiment.

IN SOUTH AFRICA

He then went out to South Africa and joined the South African Constabulary, remaining with that force until 1909 when he took his discharge and returned to England.

Three years later he came out to British Columbia.

During his retirement Commissioner Parsons was a keen collector of Indian relics and a student of Indian history on the Pacific Coast.

He leaves the widow, the former Lucille Malkin of Vancouver; one son, Richard, in New York, and one grandson, John.

Funeral service will be held in Hayward's Funeral Co. Chapel 3.30 p.m. Friday, conducted by Canon George Biddle.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

North-South: 1. Bill Simpson-Balkie, Les Stewart; 2 and 3 (tied), Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, Elizabeth Warren, George Morgan; 4. Dorothy McConnell, Hilda Price.

Individual tournament: 1. Laura Tingley; 2. Jim Duprau; 3 and 4 (tied), Isabel Artlett and Dora Duprau; 5. Dick Lipsey; 6. Frank Artlett.

Austin William Patenaude, 1245 Goldstream, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a charge of impaired driving on Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway.

Police said the man drove at 50 miles an hour in a 30 zone, increased to 55 in a 40 zone, went onto the wrong side of the highway, came back to the right side, went onto the gravel shoulder, then skidded 30-feet sideways when he applied brakes at the sound of a police siren.

Joseph W. Trodden, 18, of 1353 Pembroke, was fined $20 when he pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to being a minor in possession of beer. Police said they found a part bottle under the front seat of the car in which he was riding.

The Canadian Government icebreaker CGS Camels, which left Victoria July 5, arrived at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, Wednesday to take on fuel and water before proceeding to the Western Arctic.

The icebreaker is giving support to convoys carrying supplies to DEW line outposts throughout the north.

Royal Jubilee Hospital hospitality apparently didn't suit a 22-year-old Victorian who fell from a second-storey fire escape at 11 p.m. Tuesday.

City police took Darrell Smith, 819 Fort Street, to hospital with a suspected back injury after the fall. They were called by Barry Jackson of the same address.

But at 1.40 a.m. hospital officials reported to police Smith had slipped out a hospital window, leaving behind an empty wallet, shirt and socks.

City parks committee chairman Aid. M. H. Mooney and parks administrator W. H. Warren today left for Portland, Ore., to attend the two-day convention of the International Northwest Parks Association.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What language do Eskimos speak? I mean apart from Eskimo, K.H.

A. Any language they learn, plus Eskimo. Eskimos all speak the same language, with only differences by dialect.

Q. In modern idiom, what does "ball" and "dig" and "send" mean? L.W.

A. They mean, as asked, a good time, understanding, and appreciation.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

A boy who ran across traffic lanes in the middle of Johnson Street bridge and was in collision with a car at 4.30 p.m. Tuesday is in satisfactory condition with a broken leg today.

City police said Wynn Boothroyd, 13, of 1326 Coventry, ran into the path of a car driven by John W. Jones, 854 Phoenix, and was taken to Jubilee Hospital with leg injury and head cuts.

A total of about 700 people visited two shows of the Grand Ole Opry in Victoria Curling Club Tuesday night.

An official at the club said people "didn't turn out too well" and the second show in particular was "pretty poor."

Those who did attend were a very appreciative crowd but a visiting circus affected attendance considerably, it was felt.

Six new outbreaks of fire in forests of Vancouver Island and the southern coastal mainland areas were reported in the past 24 hours by the B.C. Forest Service. None were believed serious.

There will be few local cherries on the market this month due to poor pollination this spring, but elsewhere in the province the crop is average, B.C. horticulturists reported today.

Picking started this week in Saanich, but the cherries are so few in orchards that growers are finding it hardly worth while picking them for marketing.

Keith Sedgman, Tanner Road, owner of a large orchard, said apart from poor pollination wild pigeons also reduced his crop.

HURLED HALF WAY through the windshield when the 1959 model station wagon he drove spun off Patricia Bay Highway and rolled down a bank near Sayward at 10.35 a.m. today, Grant Craig Litster, 39, of 1857 Feltham, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and admitted in fair condition with head injury. Police said Litster drove south, lost control of the vehicle and it left the pavement, rolled over a 15-foot ditch, through a wire fence and came to rest on its left side facing north between two trees, a total wreck. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Charges Laid In Laundromat Coin Box Theft

Bail was set at $1,500 each for three young men charged in city police court today with burglary and theft in connection with removal of coin boxes at a Quadra laundromat early Tuesday.

An estimated $90 in change was contained in nine coin receptacles police recovered at a Kings Road apartment just around the corner from the burglary.

A joint charge was read to Robert Dunbar, no fixed address; Sidney Travers, 335 Richmond and Grant Shaver, of Victoria. Police allege breaking, entering and theft at Sparkle Bright Launderette, 2584 Quadra, at about 4.15 a.m.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady asked that "substantial" bail be set.

Hazel June Married In James Bay Church

Wearing a scintillating new War Amps Hall floor-length gown of nylon sheer, Hazel Edith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayland R. June, 334 Michigan Street, recently became the bride of James Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Jackson, 1240 Santa Rosa Avenue, in James Bay United Church. Rev. J. Romeril, assisted by Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated.

Bride's gown featured a basque bodice with lily-point sleeves and a sabrina neckline of Chantilly lace enhanced with sparkling iridescent sequins. A Juliet cap of nylon sheer and iridescent sequins held the fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried red roses. Sisters of the bride, Lorna and Sharon June, chose blue and yellow net and lace, bridesmaids' gowns. Flower girls, Wanda and Karen June, wore pink nylon dresses. They all wore net headpieces and carried bouquets of yellow and pink carnations.

Arthur, Jackson ushered friends and relatives into the church and Peter Fletcher acted as groomsmen.

A three-tier wedding cake centred the bridal table at the reception in the Oak Bay Ave.

Uncle of the bride, Cecil June, Magnolia, Alta., proposed the toast to the bride.

Age-Old Problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I think it is time somebody started some kind of an organization to reform some of our adults. Their lack of honesty, integrity and sobriety is even more discouraging. It is their bad example that has caused our youth to laugh at the old-fashioned virtues.

SENIOR CITIZEN.
DEAR SENIOR CITIZEN:

DEAR ABBY: I am in a state of shock and am sick inside. My husband's boss sent him on a business trip last week. He has gone on many and I have always packed for him because he doesn't know how to pack. When he comes home, I unpack his suitcase. All his things are thrown in his case every which way. I never cared because it was just his soiled laundry.

On his last trip I unpacked for him and my heart stood still. Everything was packed perfectly. Socks matched up together. Pyjamas folded neatly. He never could have done it himself. There must be another woman in the picture. Now when he comes near me, I freeze up. I can't bring myself to ask him any questions because I guess I don't want to face the truth. Should I just leave him or what?

DEAR SICK: Most of the things we worry about never happened, or never will happen. For goodness sake, ask him and get it over with. You could be off base by a country mile. Sellboys frequently pack for men who must check out in a hurry. Give your husband a chance to defend himself.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 27, but he acts like he has only one week to live. I've heard of people wanting to see the world but this guy's got it bad. In the year we have been married we've been half-way across the country.

We get settled in an apart-

Marilyn Gale Smith and Groom To Make Home on Minstrel Island

Minstrel Island, B.C., will be the future home of newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul Smith, whose marriage took place in Centennial United Church recently.

Bride, the former Marilyn Gale, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith of Sidney, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Smith of Courtenay. Rev. S. Parsons officiated at the evening ceremony.

Tall baskets of gladioli and Esther Reid daisies decorated the church.

Bride entered the church on the arm of L. G. Thomas, Sidney. Her floor-length gown of Hong Kong silk brocade featured a V-neckline, long sleeves and princess-line waistline extending into a skirt with train. Her veil was in fingertip length and she carried a crisp bouquet of gardenias and ivy. Mimosa yellow and mint green were respective tones of gowns worn by Miss Evans Smith, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert Heath and Mrs. David Christian. All carried bouquets of salmon pink and yellow gladioli, respectively. Miss Wendy Robertson, flower girl, wore a mimosa yellow frock and carried a basket of mixed summer flowers.

Barry Smith, groom's brother, was best man, and ushers were Raymond Parry and Ted Ellison, all of Courtenay.

Bach's "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" was played by organist Mrs. M. Wilmhurst, during signing of the register. E. R. Hall proposed the toast to the bride at reception in C and C Hall. Mother of the bride received guests, wearing a heavy crepe dress with white accessories and pink carnation corsage. A blue tulle and velvet gown was worn by the groom's mother. Her accessories were in pink, as was her corsage of carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Calgary, the bride donned an olive-green suit and white accessories. Her corsage was a gardenia.

The blades of paring knives often work loose from the handles. Push a little plastic wood well into the crevice of the handle and replace the blade of the knife. Let it dry for a few hours and the knife will be as strong as new.

Victoria Top Target For Enemy Missiles

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver's civil defence head says Victoria would be a more logical target for enemy missiles than Vancouver.

Group Capt. Alex Lewis said the naval base at Esquimalt, which would become a base for United States missile-launching submarines, would be a top strategic target in a nuclear war.

"Vancouver would be a lovely port to be saved for an enemy's own landing uses," he said in reply to criticism by a Vancouver alderman that fallout shelters are a hoax and a waste of money.

But the city would be in danger from fallout from nuclear attacks on Seattle and Victoria. For that reason fallout shelters would save lives.
Ald. Frank Fredrickson said the shelters, recommended by the federal government, would be useless in the event of nuclear attack.

GREAT SLAVE

Probers Split Over Rail Route

OTTAWA (CP)—A three-man Royal Commission investigating routes for a railway to Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories has been unable to agree on a finding, it was announced today.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker tabled in the Commons copies of the report of the commission headed by Mr. Justice M.
E. Manning of Edmonton. One commissioner favored an eastern route, the other favored a western route. The chairman said the case for the eastern route was weaker than for the western.

Northern terminal of the railway would be on the south shore of the Great Slave Lake to tap the lead zinc resources of Pine Point.

The proposed eastern route would run 418 miles from Mc-Murray waterways in northeastern Alberta, following the Athabasca and Peace Rivers to Fort Smith and then travelling northwest to Pine Point.
The proposed western route, 437 miles long, would run from Grimshaw roughly paralleling the Mackenzie highway to Alexander Falls, south of Hay River, and then northeasterly to Pine Point.

Chairman Manning said "a railway from Grimshaw would give service to communities already established, and would be easier and less costly to build."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Dear Father, when I am tempted to judge another, give me an understanding heart and an open mind. Help me realize that I may not know what prompted his course and that, faced with similar circumstances, I might have done or said the same thing. Let me be careful never to judge another by the yardsticks I make; in Jesus' name. Amen.

U.K. Protests Soviet Action

LONDON (UPI)—Britain
today joined the United States in protesting against the shooting down of an American reconnaissance bomber over the international waters of the Barents Sea by the Russians, informed sources revealed.
Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in a note to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev warned that such illegal actions by the Russians heightened international tension, the sources said.

Tenders Approved

DUNCAN—City council has approved tenders for the installation of plumbing and electrical facilities in the new civic centre parking lot and building.

A bid of $1,995, submitted by J. W. Griffiths Ltd., for the plumbing received approval.
The tender of $2,207 from Combined Electric for the fixtures in the public rest rooms was approved.

Mayor J. T. Dobson said the amount includes work, including flood-lighting, in the parking area.

Inquiry Promised As Swimmer Hurt

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee will conduct an inquiry into a Beaver Lake swimming hazard that resulted in serious cuts to a Saanich boy at 12.55 p.m. Tuesday.

Marcus Gallard, 15, of 3932
Cumberland, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for a three-hour operation on wrist and hand tendons after he stumbled on a small tree stump and fell on another, described as "razor sharp," in about two feet of water fronting the park concession.

The accident happened as the boy was running from the water.

His condition today was good, the hospital said.

A policeman and lifeguard said the parks department should have removed a number of tree stumps that were cut off at an angle below the waterline, instead of leaving them as "extremely dangerous" hazards.

At the spot where the boy fell there are some six or eight stumps, measuring about three inches across and four inches in height, it was claimed.

"We'll look into it at once," committee chairman Ald. Millard Mooney said. "I wasn't aware there were any stumps left. We moved tons of it out of that area."

He pointed out there are "ample areas" which have been cleared for swimming, and "children should be careful where they go."

"I have seen those stumps," Ald. Geoffrey Edgell said.

He felt warnings should be posted or the hazard removed.
